

Bell Will Continue Tax Hike Fight

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who with State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, led a GOP state budget revolt in Albany Friday, has not changed his position as yet saying he has not analyzed the governor's new tax bills because he has not received the information.

Bell said he had a courier on stand-by in Albany until late yesterday, awaiting delivery of a copy of the tax package intended to close the $1.5 budget gap, but the information never arrived.

"Until I have the entire tax proposal to analyze, not just fragmentary news reports, I cannot make a judgement," Bell said.

Sen. Rolison, who is in New York City on business today, was unable to be reached for comment.

Friday, Bell and Rolison were critical of the new budget proposals because they were based on "if" money, anticipated in the form of federal revenue sharing. They said that they would vote against the Rockefeller tax package calling for new and additional taxes unless the governor called off the special Dec. 27 session to vote on it.

To date, the governor has steadfastly refused to cancel the session and today again summoned the Senate and Assembly back to Albany next Monday to act on his fiscal proposals and on legislation drafted to stall off Jan. 1 hikes in New York City transit fares.

Neither Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, who was also critical of Rockefeller's call for a second special session this month, nor State Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges had immediate comment on the present fiscal proposals.

Rockefeller had outlined his proposals at a series of news conferences and the bills held no significant exceptions to those outlines.

The increased taxes, the governor hopes, would produce an estimated $427 million in revenue over the next 15 months — $236 million of it from income tax boosts.

Among other taxes that would be boosted are those on liquor, beer and wine, gasoline and diesel motor fuel and cigarettes. A gift tax would be established. Depletion allowances on oil and other minerals would be repealed and fuel distributor's commissions would be eliminated.

The Associated Industries of New York State Inc., a major association of businesses, in one of it publications Monday, called for spending cuts and not tax increases, saying, "The day of reckoning is at hand."

It was just such sentiment that led to the Bell-Rolison opposition to the governor's fiscal plan, Rolison said Friday that the Legislature generally believes "we've been had," adding that "the efforts started last year to make the Legislature more responsive and independent of the executive branch will continue."

Meanwhile, Bell said today that he voted for the recent reapportionment bill only after a long and thorough study of the federal and state constitutional rules of the one-man, one-vote doctrine.

"Equality in population or equal number of people is only one rule. The major trouble-makers for Ulster County are the town and block on border rule and the priority of division rule with regard to cutting minor counties. Ulster County unfortunately is a minor population county and therein lies the problem," he explained.

Bell said he does not like the Supreme Court's rules and regulations but adds that "we are a country of laws and we must obey the law."

The assemblyman said however, that he feels that the men elected to represent Ulster County under the new law, whomever they may be, will do so with all of the energy and talent they possess and they will do what is best as they see their lawful duty for all of the people of Ulster County and the State of New York.

Businessmen Label Budget As 'Fiscal Nightmare'

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller's plan to raise taxes and cut the budget, even if their operating costs already under bipartisan attack from many legislators, drew new fire today from the state's business community.

Rockefeller Monday sent the legislature six of the 15 bills in his fiscal program, including five bills hiking taxes a total of $427 million and a measure to delay $350 million in state school aid programs.

The governor did not however reveal the plan by which he plans to save another $250 million by freezing all state expenditures except school aid and welfare at current levels.

The governor sent this proposal confidentially to the fiscal committees in both houses. An aide said the plan "constitutes essentially the entire budget for 1972-73."

Altogether, the governor's fiscal program, which relies heavily on an anticipated $400 million increase in federal aid, is aimed at wiping out a deficit the governor said would total $1.5 billion in the next 15 months.

The state budget freeze means that department and agency heads will have the same amount of money they received in the 1972-72 budget, even if their operating costs increase, a spokesman said. "They will have to decide where they are going to cut," he added.

State tax proposals are summarized. Story on page 3.

While Rockefeller has exempted school aid and welfare payments from the freeze, other areas of state aid, especially the recently enacted revenue sharing with local governments, were said to be cutback two to three per cent under the proposal.

The governor sent five tax bills to the legislature. They were:

—A number of changes in the income tax, including a five per cent surcharge and elimination of the $12.50 and $25 automatic credits. The new tax would take effect the first of the year and would not apply to 1971 income. The bill would raise $236 million. Persons with an individual income of $2,500 or a family income of $5,000 would be exempted from paying any state tax.

—An increase in the cigarette tax from $2.25 to $3.25 a gallon a half per cent, and would increase on a scale to a maximum of 15 per cent on amounts over $10 million. This would be about three-quarters of the amount now paid for estate taxes. The tax would be paid by the donor before the gift is made. The tax will go into effect Feb. 1 to raise $60.5 million in the next 15 months.

—A new state gift tax. The amount paid would depend on the amount of the gift. On less than $50,000 it would be one and

Nixon, Heath Summit... Some Tactical Differences

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—President Nixon and British Prime Minister Edward Heath, whose countries worked together in hot wars and cold, are moving in their summit talks toward tacit agreement to disagree on some elements of future foreign policies.

The two leaders met for five hours Monday, 90 minutes longer than scheduled, in a drawing room of the hilltop Governor's House overlooking the Atlantic.

The initial session carried philosophical and ideological overtones, officials indicated, while the concluding two meetings today were to focus on such specifics as how to complete the rebuilding of the international monetary system.

Devalued dollar begins slow return to favor. Story on page 7.

"The sunny-climate summit," Nixon said in his toast at a shipboard state dinner, "will serve a useful purpose."

"It builds that kind of foundation on which our two countries can go forward together in different ways, at times, toward the same great goal of a world of peace..." the President said.

He referred to "some tactical differences," but said there are common ties and principles which cement "that special relationship between Britain and the United States which has existed for so long and... still is healthy, maturing and also necessary."

The White House selected the Bermuda talks as the occasion for two announcements—the removal of the 10 per cent import surcharge and the decision to ask Congress next year to grant generalized trade preferences to developing nations.

Nixon personally announced outside Governor's House that he had signed while en route to Bermuda a proclamation lifting the import surcharge. The U.S. action was promised as part of the monetary realignment agreement reached by the Group of Ten ministers.

Five U.S. Jets Downed by MIGs, N. Vietnamese Capture Four Pilots

SAIGON (UPI)—A squadron of Soviet-built MIG jet fighters teamed up with Communist missile and artillery batteries to down five American jets in three days, military sources said today.

The U.S. command said four of the 10 pilots shot down between Friday and Sunday were rescued. Military sources said two other pilots were missing and presumed dead. Radio Hanoi said North Vietnamese forces captured the remaining four pilots and promised they would spend Christmas in a prisoner of war camp.

In Cambodia, the cabinet appeared ready to fall today. Local newspaper reports said Prime Minister Lon Nol told members of the cabinet Sunday he intended to resign.

Political and diplomatic sources in Phnom Penh said they thought Lon Nol would become chief of state, replacing Cheng Heng, and that a new government would form under In Tam, the current president of the constituent assembly.

But In Tam, speaking from a hospital bed where he is being treated for a stomach ailment, told UPI he doubted Lon Nol would resign.

The U.S. command in Saigon identified the four downed pilots as Capt. Lester O'Brien of Tampa, Fla.; Maj. William T. Stanley of Goldsboro, N.C.; Lt. Col. Arthur S. Blissett of Apple Valley, Calif., and 1st Lt. Michael H. Murray of Chicopee, Maine.

The spokesman said air-to-air missiles fired by the MIGs downed the aircraft piloted by Blissett and Murray Friday night. They were rescued early Saturday after spending the night in Laotian jungles.

Spokesman said O'Brien and Stanley's F4 was felled Saturday, also by MIG missiles, near Ban Tao, Laos, 10 miles west of the North Vietnamese border.

Sources said two other American phantoms were felled Saturday afternoon, but commanders did not know where or how. Sources said they could have been hit by MIGs.

Radio Hanoi reported a U.S. F4 was shot down in North Vietnam 90 miles east of Hanoi and 30 miles northeast of Haiphong harbor. The Communist station said another F4 was downed in Hoa Binh province southwest of Hanoi. It said all four pilots were captured.

Radio Hanoi identified the pilots as Lt. Kenneth Roth Wells, 24; Maj. Leland Lewis Hildebrand, 33; Lt. Samuel Richard Vaughan, 26; and Maj. Kenneth Richard Johnson, 33. No hometowns were given.

Military sources said anti-aircraft fire downed the fifth Phantom Sunday over the Plain of Jars in Laos. Both pilots were 1st and presumed dead, sources said.

Onteora School Board Scores State Department

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
BOICEVILLE
The State Department of Transportation came under heavy fire from the Onteora Central Schools Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Frank Marlow at the board's monthly meeting Monday night.

What has aroused the ire of Onteora administrators is the manner in which state highway department workers have been handling snow and ice conditions on roads in the school district this winter.

In his monthly report to the board, Dr. Marlow made it glaringly clear that he is strongly dissatisfied with the way state roads have been maintained since the area's first major snowfall. Pointing out that snow plowing and sanding on the roads involved had formerly fallen under the county's domain, but that those responsibilities have now been assumed by the state, the superintendent charged that the state "has not retooled sufficiently to provide proper snow removal."

He denounced road conditions following the last two snowfalls of this year; cited them as hazardous for bus travel.

The facts to date obviously back up Dr. Marlow's contentions. In mid-November, an Onteora school bus skidded on the icy and unsanded Wittenberg-Glenford Road; careened down a steep incline, snapped off a telephone pole, and smashed head-on into the living room of a private brick residence. Unbelievably, the more than 20 Boiceville-bound students aboard, minor injuries were incurred by only one teenaged girl and the driver.

The same morning saw many OCS teachers stranded in cars along roads leading to the Boiceville High School building, and classes were delayed for at least two periods until sand trucks eventually but belatedly paved the way for their arrival.

Dr. Marlow also condemned the condition of Route 28 yesterday; said it was in "serious condition" at bus transport time from the Maverick Road up to the high school building, a distance of more than 12 miles. The major state highway was so hazardous, he said, that conditions prohibited one bus from attempting the run from West Hurley to Boiceville.

On the basis of Marlow's report, the board authorized the superintendent to lodge a formal complaint with the N.Y. State Board of Transportation offices in Albany and Poughkeepsie. The strongly worded complaint will go out immediately and will express dissatisfaction with the manner in which state roads in the school district are currently being maintained.

At last night's meeting, the board also passed a resolution indicating its concern with the state's current "financial crisis." Noting that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and the State Legislature are talking in terms of a $1½-billion budget cut, trustees said they viewed this possibility as a "threat" that state aid to local school districts could be cut as much as 25 per cent during the current fiscal year.

Such a cut would put Onteora, and others, in "bad shape," says the board. The unanimously approved resolution indicated strong opposition to any cuts in state aid for the present school year, since school budgets for 1971-72 have already been adopted in the light of "commitments" made by the 1971 legislature.

"Any reduction would not only be intolerable," noted the OCS board, "but would also be in violation of 'good faith' commitments made by the State of New York."

Area Girl Killed in Crash

MIDDLEBURG
Two 19-year-old students from Cobleskill Agricultural and Technical College, including a Kingston girl, were killed Monday afternoon in a two-car collision on Route 145 in the Schoharie County town of Broome, as they were on their way home for the Christmas vacation period.

Police identified the dead as Miss Linda Every, of Amron Farms, Kingston, and Seamus V. Sheridan of 230 Honey Lane, Wappingers Falls, Dutchess County.

The car in which they were riding was driven by Miss Every, police said, when the vehicle collided head-on with an auto operated by Mrs. Frances Lane, 46, of Smithtown, Long Island, who was on her way to Cobleskill to pick up her daughter, also a student at the state university.

Mrs. Lane was admitted to Schoharie County Community

Hospital in Cobleskill where her condition was listed as satisfactory.

Mary L. Kaufman of 51 Wells Farm Road, of Wethersfield, Conn., another student at the upstate college, who was a passenger in the car operated by Miss Every, also was reported in satisfactory condition at the Cobleskill Hospital.

Effective date: Jan. 1, 1972.
Estimated yield: About $15 million annually when fully effective, but less than $6 million during 1972.

Amount: Computed cumulatively over the donor's lifetime, by quarters, on a graduated rate scale ranging from 1 1/2 per cent on gifts valued at less than $50,000 to 15 1/2 per cent plus $1,092,750 on values over $10.1 million.

INCOME

Estimated yield: $236 million over the next 15 months.

SURCHARGE

Effective date: Jan. 1, 1972, for taxes on 1972 income and thereafter.

Amount: Five per cent on regular and minimum personal income taxes, computed before credits. For taxable years beginning in 1971 and ending in 1972, the surcharge would be prorated to apply only to months after Dec. 31, 1971.

STATUTORY CREDITS

Effective date: Payment on 1972 income and thereafter.

Amount: Drops the statutory credit of $12.50 for single persons or married couples filing separately and of $25 for married couples, heads of household and surviving spouses.

LOW-INCOME EXCLUSION

Effective date: Payment on 1972 income and thereafter.

Amount: Completion exemption but with a procedural change and a 25 per cent boost in the eligibility ceiling. Persons moving into the state during a taxable year would be required to combine New York adjusted gross income for the residency period with a hypothetical New York adjusted gross income during the non-residency period, to determine their taxable income. The ceiling would change from exemption for single persons with incomes of less than $2,000 to exemption for single persons with incomes of less than $2,500 and for married couples, heads of household and surviving spouses with incomes of less than $5,000.

MINIMUM STANDARD DEDUCTION

Effective date: Payment on 1972 income and thereafter.

Amount: Establishes a minimum standard deduction of $1,000 for single persons and $1,500 for married couples, heads of household and surviving spouses. Present law provides for a minimum standard deduction of 14 per cent of New York adjusted gross income in 1972 and 15 per cent in 1973—but in neither cases more than $2,000.

MINIMUM INCOME TAX

Effective date: Payment on 1972 income and thereafter.

Amount: Doubles from three per cent to six the levy on minimum taxable income of individuals, estates and trusts. Reduces by three-fourths, from $20,000 to $5,000, the specific deduction allowed for individuals and married persons filing jointly and, from $10,000 to $2,500, for married persons filing separately. The reductions also apply to estates and trusts. The changes would effectively reduce itemized deductions for certain personal-income taxpayers as well.

Effective date: Payment on 1972 income and thereafter.
Amount: Repeals the percentage allowance on depletion of oil and other minerals, for purposes of personal income and unincorporated business income tax, that present state tax laws allow under the same formulas as federal tax laws.

MOTOR FUEL

Effective date: Feb. 1, 1972.
Estimated yield: In fiscal 1972-73, $63.5 million—$58.3 million from gasoline taxes, $2.7 million from diesel motor fuel taxes and $2.5 million from the elimination of distributors' commissions.

Amount: Adds a supplemental one-cent tax each to the present seven-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax and nine-cents-a-gallon diesel motor fuel tax, allowed distributors of those fuels, of four-sevenths of one per cent on gasoline and two-thirds of one per cent on diesel fuel, as unjustified without distributors' having a unique tax-collection function.

The new rates apply to fuel delivered on and after Feb. 1 even if delivery contracts are made before Feb. 1. Evasion would be prevented by a floor tax equal to the increase on all gasoline being held for sale Feb. 1, payable by March 20 with exemptions for the first 1,000 gallons held by a service station and amounts held by distributors that later are sold under the boosted rate.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

Effective date: Feb. 1, 1972.
Estimated yield: $60.5 million over the next 15 months.

Amount: Increases the levy on liquor with more than 24 per cent alcohol content by $1. from $2.25 a gallon to $3.25; on liquor with less than 24 per cent alcohol content by 13 1/2 cents, from 66 1/2 cents a gallon to 80 cents; on natural sparkling wines by 11 1/2 cents, from 53 1/2 cents a gallon to 65 cents; on artificially carbonated wines by 5 1/2 cents, from 26 1/2 cents a gallon to 32 cents; on still wines by two cents, from a dime a gallon to 12 cents; on beer by 5 1/2 cents, from 4 1/2 cents a gallon to a dime.

Provisions on delivery, sale and floor tax are included in the same manner as for the motor-fuel tax increases, with the exceptions applying to the first 250 gallons possessed on Feb. 1 on retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers.

McKneally Begins Probation

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Martin B. McKneally began his first full day of a year's probation today after U.S. District Court Judge James T. Foley Monday fined him $5,000 and placed him on probation.

McKneally had pleaded guilty Oct. 18 to one of four misdemeanor counts of a federal grand jury indictment that accused him of willful failure to file U.S. income-tax returns from 1964 through 1967 on $78,515 in earnings.

The three other counts were dismissed Monday.

The Newburgh attorney—for mer American Legion national commander and state chairman of the March of Dimes for five years—was sentenced on the guilty plea to failure to file a 1965 return on $24,496 income. McKneally, 57, served one term in the U.S. House, edging John G. Dow, a Democrat-Liberal, in the 1968 general election and losing to him last year, when the tax-return charges were an issue.

The defendant and his attorney, Charles A. Simmons of New York, cited newspaper publicity on the charges as instrumental in that defeat and in the "damaged career"

McKneally said is "up to me now to re-establish."

McKneally, special counsel to Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson during his House term, stood with his hands in his back pockets, rocking on his heels, as he and Simmons addressed Foley.

All three reviewed at length the defendant's public-service record and the judge emphasized that the charge was a misdemeanor.

"You did nothing to mislead," Foley told McKneally, but added that deterrents to crime were necessary and sentence must be imposed to that end, since "you have been punished more than I can punish you here."

"I am not an embezzler. I am not a cheat, as one newspaper painted me to be," the former lawmaker said, in addressing Foley. "I have been a good citizen and an outspoken advocate of our government."

Still pending are civil actions involving the Internal Revenue Service's claim that McKneally owes back taxes and penalties and McKneally's counter-claim that the government owes him back refunds.

McKneally refused comment when questioned by reporters after the sentencing.

Lindsay Aide Scores Ground Rules At Knapp Commission Hearings

NEW YORK (UPI)—An adviser to Mayor John V. Lindsay said Monday that ground rules laid down by officers investigating police corruption prevented him from telling the mayor that the officers felt their allegations were not being adequately investigated.

The adviser, Jay Kriegel, had said in sworn testimony last July that he had told Lindsay of the two policemen's dissatisfaction with the investigation of their complaints.

Speaking at public hearings of the Knapp Commission, which is investigating charges of widespread police corruption in the nation's largest police force, Kriegel said Detective Frank Serpico and Sgt. David Durk told him they did not want Howard Leary, then the police commissioner, to know about their allegations.

That restriction, Kriegel said, "tied my hands" in launching an investigation, because he said Lindsay was reluctant to work behind Leary's back.

However, on July 14, Kriegel had told the commission that he passed on to Lindsay Serpico's and Durk's dissatisfaction with the alleged lack of investigation.

Kriegel said Monday that he was aware of the discrepancy in his testimony. Conversations with Lindsay had convinced him that he had not told the mayor of the policemen's dissatisfaction, Kriegel said.

Leary, who resigned without explanation in September, 1970, said "the $64 question" was why Lindsay and his staff had not told him of the policemen's brought to 16 the number of policemen charged as a result of the Knapp investigation.

Monday was the last day of the Knapp hearings, which were held for several days in October and several days this month.

During the hearings, witnesses have testified that corruption was widespread in the force; that policemen regularly took payoffs from gamblers, contractors and tow-truck operators; that officers gave addicts heroin in exchange for stolen goods such as liquor and a power saw; and that high police officials knew of allegations of widespread corruption but did nothing about them.

Lindsay established the Knapp Commission in 1970, and appointed corporate lawyer Whitman Knapp to head it, after the New York Times printed articles about police corruption.

Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan announced Monday that four patrolmen and a bar owner have been charged with bribery and conspiracy in an alleged protection scheme for a gambling operation. That and Serpico as "courageous men."

Leary said he became aware that John Walsh, then his deputy commissioner, had information about corruption only when Leary read about it in the newspaper. Walsh said last week that he did not take any action on Durk's and Serpico's allegations because he lacked specific information.

In testimony last Friday, Durk charged that Kriegel failed to investigate his charges in 1966 and 1969 because he, first, did not want to alienate the police and, later, because Lindsay was running for reelection. Kriegel denied those charges.

Nine Persons Convicted In Cocaine Ring Case

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine persons, including seven Chileans, have been convicted on federal charges as members of a cocaine smuggling ring that employed a frogman as an underwater courier.

A 10th defendant, Mario Sepulveda, was severed from the trial when he agreed to become a government witness. Charges against him are expected to be dropped.

The jury deliberated two hours Monday before rendering its verdict on three weeks of trial testimony, much of it supplied by Sepulveda and electronic telephone tapings.

Sepulveda testified that under an original plan, seamen were to smuggle drugs from the Chilean freighter Maipo after it docked here.

However, the ship's captain had discovered a separate, unconnected drug hoard on board during a previous voyage and notified federal authorities before he dumped it overboard.

To circumvent the alerted authorities, the defendants hired Eduardo Borrone, 28, also a defendant, to swim to the ship when it docked near the Gowanus Canal in Brooklyn. In two underwater trips in September and November, 1970, he brought back 61 kilos of cocaine.

Sentencing was set for Jan. 28 on the charges of conspiring to import and traffic in dangerous drugs, which could result in 20-to-40 year prison terms for each defendant.

One defendant, Agapio Gu-

Leon, is already serving a sentence in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary on a narcotics charge.

Other Chileans convicted, in addition to Gu-Leon and Borrone, were Madelaine Pineda, 28; three brothers, Victor, 24; Enrique, 32; and Martin Hernandez, 37; and Manuel Figueroa, 30.

Convicted with the Chileans were James Miller, 42, and Joseph Gerai, 50.

Missionary Is Presumed Drowned

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Rev. Joseph O. Tierney, a U.S. Roman Catholic missionary, was presumed drowned Monday following his disappearance while swimming in the Pacific, the Congregation of the Holy Cross reported.

Officials of the order said Father Tierney, 48, was with two companions Sunday when a large wave swept them off a rock into the sea. The bodies of the three were not recovered.

Father Tierney was assigned to Santiago after he and other priests were expelled from East Pakistan in 1966 for problems they allegedly caused in Indo-Pakistani relations.

Reach Agreement on Rosendale Police Budget

ROSENDALE
Rosendale Village Trustee William Ritter has corrected his figures on the Police Department's 1971 expenditures to date, and they now conform with those released by Mayor Carl P. Grassi and Police Chief Walter Byer.

At the Dec. 8 Village Board meeting, Ritter contended that the Police Department had spent $7,246.48 during the first six months of the fiscal year, despite the fact that the department's total budget was only $2,000. Both Grassi and Byer stated that night that $6,261.68 had been spent for police protection.

On Monday, Ritter stated, "Since the Village Board meeting on Dec. 8, I have met personally with the Chief (Byer). We discussed the figures of the Police Department again, and I find I was in error..."

Ritter continued, stating, "The Board did spend $6,261.68 in a six month period, which is $4,261.68 more than was budgeted for a whole year. The Village did receive $1,859 in fines to date, which reduces the $4,261.68 over the budget to $2,402.68. However, I am still of the opinion that Mayor Grassi showed what little preparation went into the planning of the budget."

"In fairness to Chief Byer," Ritter added, "I must say in the discussion of the making of the budget, Chief Byer did say that he felt the $2,000 adopted as a final figure was inadequate to sustain the Police Department for a year."

At the Dec. 8 meeting, Byer presented all the actual vouchers for police department expenses for the six month period ending Dec. 7, and said that the total he and Grassi reached represented a tabulation of the figures on those vouchers. The vouchers were certified as being complete and accurate by the Village Treasurer, Eulalia Priest.

Ritter also stated that he "had no intention of impugning the integrity" of Chief Byer in his comments to the press prior to the meeting.

Bevier Answers Conservative on Gardiner Road

GARDINER
Ulster County Legislator Louis H. Bevier (R-Dist. 8) has taken exception to statements in the Dec. 17 Daily Freeman attributed to the Ulster County Conservative Party.

Said Bevier, "I resent the allegations by Mr. Harry Hoffman that there was something improper in an appropriation by the County Legislature for realignment and reconstruction of a road in the Town of Gardiner."

The road in question was "the only one in the county with plans and specifications already prepared that met with the Planning Board's designation as a Major County road," Bevier said.

According to Bevier, the road was the beneficiary of $30,000 in the 1971 budget for design and survey purposes, and the intention was to secure Federal funds for the actual construction. However, it was found that Federal funds are allocated for five years in advance.

This was felt to be too long to wait, according to the legislator, and it was decided to go ahead with construction on the county's own, Bevier stated.

Since the legislature had decided to put county road construction out for bid, and the Gardiner road was ready, it was the Gardiner road which got funds, Bevier said.

"If Mr. Hoffman had expressed shock and dismay over the high cost of highway construction I would have had to agree; however, he only decries the road location," noted the legislator.

"Where was his overriding need to inform the public when many more hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent on the IBM road?" asked Bevier.

Bill Is Filed To Raise Age For Jury Duty

ALBANY
A bill will be pre-filed in the state legislature to raise the maximum age of jury service from 70 years to 75 on the recommendation of Attorney General Louise J. Lefkowitz, according to the Attorney General's Office.

The bill will be co-sponsored by Senator Darwin J. Niles (R-Fulton) and Senator Thomas Laverne (R-Monroe) and in the Assembly by Assemblyman Gordon W. Burrows (R-Westchester) and Assemblyman Milton Jonas (R-Nassau).

Sales Tax Up In Sullivan Co.

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI)—Sullivan County will have a one per cent sales tax beginning Jan. 1, thus raising the total sales tax in the county to five per cent.

The Board of Supervisors approved the one per cent levy Monday as they adopted the county's 1972 budget of $17.85 million. The budget is $1.6 million higher than the 1971 spending program.

Robert Parker, operator of the Concord Hotel, represented several resort hotel owners who argued that the local sales tax would hurt their business.

The statewide sales tax is 4 per cent and counties may charge up to an additional 3 per cent.

'Yes, Virginia' Woman Dead, But Her Memory Lingers

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

NORTH CHATHAM, N. Y. (UPI)—She was frail and often in poor health in later years, but nearly three-quarters of a century before she had written a letter that inspired one of the Christmas Season's most enduring tributes.

So when Mrs. Laura Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas died last May 18 at the age of 81 the last living link with that letter to the New York Sun was gone but the tribute lives on.

And her memory will linger also because it was she who wrote the Sun 74 years ago saying her friends had told her there was no Santa Claus and received the famed reply, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

A cheerful and witty woman who suffered ill health frequently in her later years, Mrs. Douglas always insisted that it was Francis P. Church, the editorial writer who penned the reply to her letter, who most deserved remembrance. Church, an assistant editor for the former New York Sun, died in 1916.

Mrs. Douglas always said it was Church who spelled out the "philosophy of hope and love," but persons who spoke to her about it years later always came away from the conversation believing that she too expressed and felt that same philosophy.

A school teacher in New York City for about 45 years before she retired and moved to upstate New York, Mrs. Douglas once said "The Christmas season is one of such great joy and the sharing of it makes me very happy and contented. If only the spirit of it were all over the world, what a wonderful place it would be."

That, she explained, was an adult way of saying what Church had told her nearly three-quarters of a century ago in his editorial:

"Is There A Santa Claus? We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear editor: 'I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?'"

Virginia O'Hanlon 115 West 95th Street

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge."

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable their existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished."

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world. "You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding."

"No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

New Problem for Businessmen

CLARKSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — new kind of antisocial behavior among teen-agers. The shoplifting phenomenon cuts across racial and social lines drawing recruits from among the middle class and poor, urban and suburban families.

Patty, a dark haired, 17-year-old, comes from what she calls a "disgustingly solid middle-class family with a nice house in a nice subdivision and more plastic neighbors than you can shake a stick at."

Patty, Ann and Kathy—the names are fictitious—reflect a

She brags at having stolen about $100 worth of goods from various stores so far this Christmas season and intends to keep most of it for herself.

"I've gotten away with everything from a can of mushrooms in a grocery to half a stereo from one of the discount stores in Clarksville," she bragged.

Ann is an attractive black whose ready smile can't hide a sadness in her eyes. She is the oldest child of a seven-member family. Ann had never done any shoplifting until November. "I don't like doing it," she said. "I feel I've got to."

Kathy, 18, from a middle class family, became a thief on a dare a little over a year ago and says she has continued for the thrills involved.

She has been concentrating on a store which didn't give her back the Christmas job she had last year.

The Nixon Court

With the confirmation of Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, President Nixon will have appointed four of the nine men who will complete the Supreme Court, the other two being Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Harry A. Blackmun. They will go a long way toward fulfilling Mr. Nixon's campaign pledge to turn the nation's highest court to the path of stressing conservatism in interpreting the law.

All four Nixon appointees have taken strong positions of law and order on questions of criminal law. All four are men of dedication to the highest judicial traditions. The opposition to Rehnquist, who drew most of the liberal fire, failed when it dwelt on a difference in philosophy rather than on ability and soundness.

President Nixon, expressing his gratification that the Senate had confirmed both his nominees, predicted that they would bring to the bench "such an exceptional degree of integrity and intellect and so keep an understanding of the judicial process that the quality of the court's decisions should be enhanced for years to come."

One of the severest criticisms of Justice-elect Rehnquist as a conservative was that he would be a conservative activist. In that regard, he would be a counterbalance to the senior member of the court, Justice William O. Douglas, whose liberal activism has endeared him to many liberals.

Douglas is now not only the senior in point of service, but of age. He was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939, when Douglas was but 41 years old. His ill health may give Nixon another chance for a fifth appointment.

Cries of court-packing rent the air when Roosevelt replaced old-line conservatives with liberals. The decisions went pretty much his way at the start. But the liberal trend—some call it socialist—is due to fade, who knows? In his mind and heart every judge is a true liberal, in the old sense of the word. He wants the best for each man, for his children, for his country. Thus surprising decisions are made.

Political Pressure

As he stepped down as Deputy Secretary of Defense, David Packard made public one of his greatest frustrations. He said that at least $1 billion a year might be realized if political restraints did not prevent the closing of surplus military facilities in various parts of the country.

"There is no question that we could make savings if we were able to take actions without any restraint," Packard said. "I would say that we might be able to save at least $1 billion a year. We have a great many political restraints, as everyone knows, on what you can do about a particular base in a particular area."

RAINMAKERS JUSTIFIED—They didn't do it with boiling pitch and big drums, but with planes, yet they increased rainfall by at least 100,000 acre-feet and put out Everglades fires in drought-stricken Florida last spring. These modern rain men "seeded" clouds per instructions from a U. S. experimental laboratory in Miami. The project cost $165,000, but the weather scientists said the value of the water was 32 to 68 times as much.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, who was present, pointed out that cutting down the size of the defense establishment and reducing defense contracts have had a tremendous impact on the economy of the country—accounting directly or indirectly for the loss of 2.7 million jobs.

This cutback has been necessary to turn from war to peace. Peaceful pursuits just did not take up the slack in full. Except for the quick reduction in the space program, which threw out engineers and technicians trained for this work, it was all a part of winding down the war.

HEATH PRIZE—Prime Minister Edward Heath has won the statesmanship sweepstakes, winning $92,137.50 prize money for being European Statesman of the Year. The prize based on "exceptional service for the political unity of Europe," was given for steering Britain into the Common Market. The West German Foundation, which gave the prize, must place a high value on European unity.

WASHINGTON—The dramatic appearance of a U.S. naval task force in the Bay of Bengal on the eve of the Pakistani surrender, it now appears, didn't intimidate India at all by merely strengthening her ties with Russia.

In New Delhi, Soviet Ambassador Nikolai M. Pegov gave India secret assurances that "a Soviet fleet is now in the Indian Ocean and will not allow the Seventh Fleet to intervene."

He also promised, in case of a Chinese attack across the Himalayas, that Russia "would open a diversionary action in Sinkiang." In short, he promised Soviet military action against both the U.S. and China if they intervened on Pakistan's side.

The fascinating story of big power intrigue during the Indian-Pakistan fighting is told in secret diplomatic dispatches and intelligence reports.

It was precisely this sort of secret maneuvering that got the U.S. deeply embroiled in the Vietnam War before the American people realized what was going on. We believe it is in the public interest, therefore, to publish excerpts from the secret documents.

In earlier columns, we told how presidential advisor Henry Kissinger assured reporters the U.S. wasn't anti-India at the same time he in instructing government policymakers to take steps against India.

"The President does not want to be even-handed," Kissinger emphasized at their secret strategy sessions. "The President believes India is the attacker."

The State Department's professionals argued that, morally, the U.S. should be on the side of the Bengalis who wanted their independence from Pakistan. The experts also warned that President Nixon's pro-Pakistan policy would only drive India into Soviet arms.

Kissinger gruffly disputed this, saying of India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi: "The lady is cold blooded and tough and will not turn India into a Soviet satellite merely because of pique."

Heeding Kissinger and disregarding the professional advice, Nixon took a tough stand at the United Nations against India and ordered the Seventh Fleet to send a task force into Indian waters.

This was definitely intended as a "show of force," although the flotilla had the additional mission of evacuating stranded Americans from embattled Dacca if the need arose.

Plans were made, meanwhile, to arrange provocative leaks in such places as Djakarta, Manila and Singapore of the task force's approach. By the time the ships had assembled in the Malacca Strait, both the Indians and Soviets were well aware they were on the way.

This merely served to bring India and Russia closer together. A secret intelligence report, giving a "reliable" account of Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Pegov's conversations with Indian officials, declared:

"Pegov stated that Pakistan is trying to draw both the United States and China into the present conflict. The Soviet Union, however, does not believe that either country will intervene."

"According to Pegov, the movement of the U.S. Seventh Fleet is an effort by the U.S. to bully India, to discourage it from striking against West Pakistan and at the same time to boost the morale of the Pakistani forces."

"Pegov noted that a Soviet fleet is now in the Indian Ocean and that the Soviet Union will not allow the Seventh Fleet to intervene."

Soviet Threat
"If China should decide to intervene," said Pegov, "the Soviet Union would open a diversionary action in Sinkiang. Pegov also commented that after Dacca is liberated and the Bangla Desh government is installed, both the U.S. and China will be unable to act and will change their current attitude toward the crisis."

Another intelligence report, giving the secret details of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov's mission to India, indicates there had been some Soviet impatience over the pace of the Indian blitzkrieg.

Kuznetsov, after his arrival in New Delhi on December 12, told Indian officials that the Kremlin was "impatient with the Indian armed forces for their inability to liberate Bangla Desh within the ten-day time frame mentioned before the outbreak of hostilities."

Kuznetsov pointed out, according to the secret report, that Soviet opposition to a cease-fire "becomes more untenable the longer the war goes on in the east."

"While Kuznetsov said the Soviet Union will continue to use its veto to stall any efforts to bring about a cease-fire for the present, he stressed the importance of quick and decisive Indian action in liberating Bangla Desh in the shortest time possible."

"Kuznetsov delayed his scheduled return to Moscow because he is awaiting special instructions from Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, regarding India's request that the Soviet Union sign a defense agreement with the Bangla Desh government after Soviet recognition of Bangla Desh."

"According to Kuznetsov, Brezhnev was not in Moscow when Kuznetsov sent him the request for guidance."

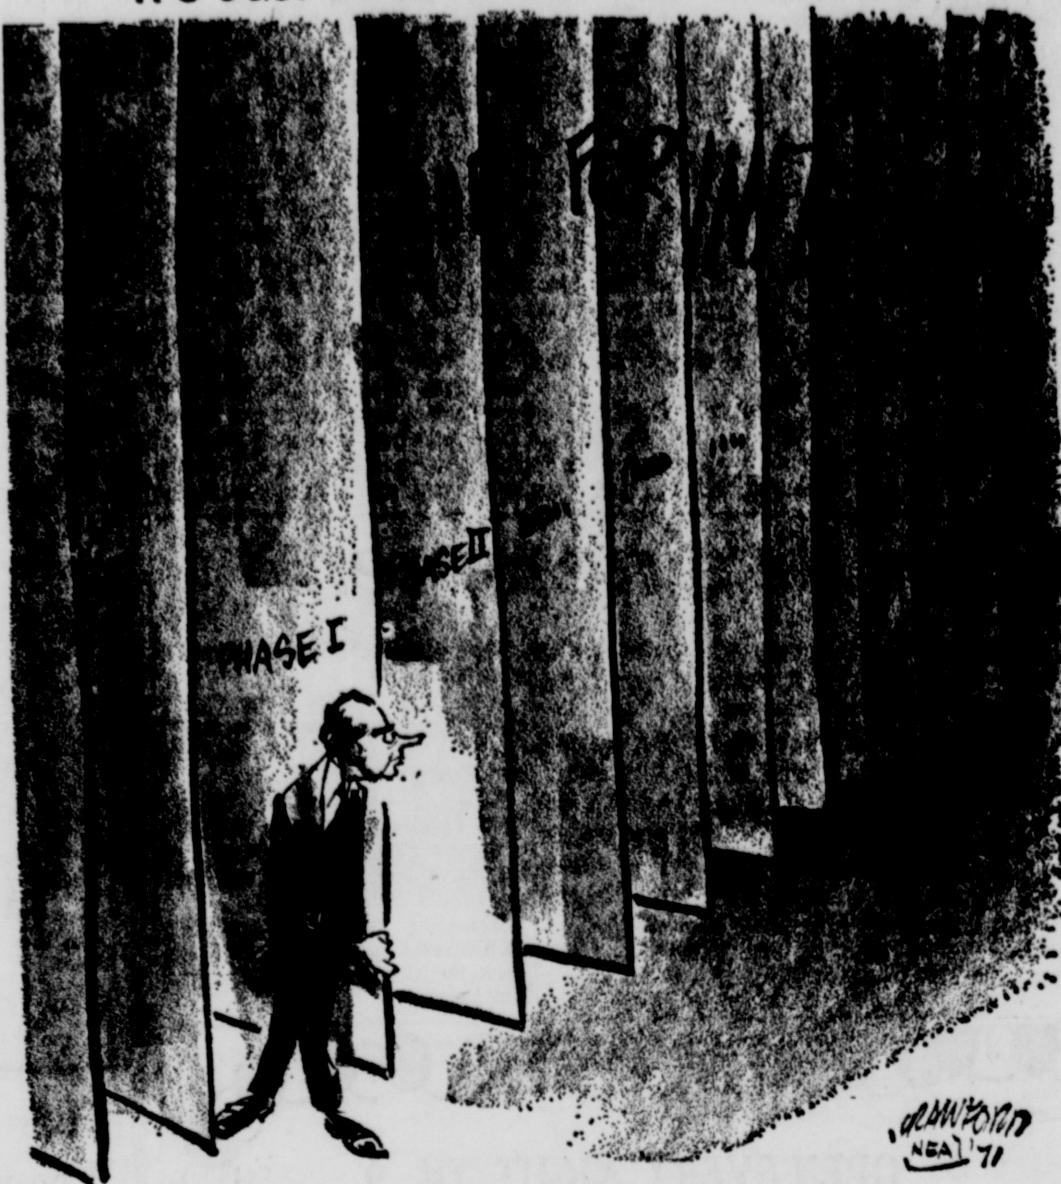

The American people, meanwhile, are entitled to straight talk from their leaders.

Canal Giveaway

Color-blind Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright, with an assist from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, is powerfully sponsoring behind the scenes another giveaway to the glee of the Reds. This plum involves the great Panama Canal.

Led by able Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D. Pa., more than 100 Congressmen publicly protest any major concessions to shaky dictator Gen. Omar Torrijos of the Republic of Panama regarding the U.S. Canal Zone. Fortunately, these protesters have some force. A new treaty with Torrijos requires approval only by the Senate, not by the House. But changes in the U.S. Canal Zone's sovereignty would require House approval because the House votes the funds for the canal's operations.

Behind closed doors, and with our public uninformed, Senators Fulbright and Kennedy are urging that Panama get greater income from our canal, control of our zone's collateral land and water areas, and that U.S. business in our zone be replaced by Panamanian enterprises. Sitting like presiding Buddhas, both confidently say that they can handle its Senate passage.

Our taxpayers have invested more than $5 billion in the Canal Zone and this giveaway package is bad enough, but it is only a part of what should be called a Red blackmail and exposed as such.

Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. could review the great canal's global strategic importance with his eyes shut. So could the general staffs of the world. Moreover, in Latin-American terms, about 80 percent of Peru's and Chile's imports and exports pass through it, with equivalent dependency on the canal among the entire Pacific side of the continent.

Certainly, the Fulbright-Kennedy pair should know, for everybody knows, that Panama (population 1.4 million) is chaotic—and is a lightning rod for Red assaults. Did they not find anything instructive in the January, 1964, riots when Red wreckers contrived a devastating, full-scale attack against our Canal Zone and brutally killed four U.S. soldiers?

The attack was led by Cuban-trained Panamanian Communist Thelma King who precipitated the iron-fisted demands which these Senators are sponsoring today.

They must know also that Panama is still a faction-ridden political jungle. Its demagogues of all stripes (including Torrijos) employ the canal to pressure-cook the population, realizing full well that more than half of Panama's true need is for betterment in agriculture and animal husbandry and the development of light industry.

It's easier for the Panamanian demagogues to roar at the United States—the country's only feeding hand.

These Senators should know, too, that Guatemala, El Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Honduras and Colombia, which borders Panama, are likewise chaotic.

Colombia President Misael Pastrana Borrero, enforcing martial law, has told our CIA that there are Castro-backed infiltrators by the thousands in Colombia's universities, trade unions. The police actually discovered clandestine weapons being manufactured in Colombia's Ministry of Public Works in Bogota.

Guatemala President Carlos Arana Osorio told the CIA: "We have been in a state of siege for nearly five years, with no end in sight."

The Dominican Republic, where only our landing of 14,000 American troops stopped a Red takeover a few years ago, nervously remains an armed camp.

I dined in New York with Nicaragua President Anastasio Somoza Debayle. He told me: "Castro has made 22 armed attempts to invade Nicaragua."

Except for Nicaragua, our 10-mile-wide Canal Zone is the only zone of stability in the region. All Communists see this situation with the forbearance of a fox in a henhouse.

It is tragically ironic that we should give abroad $148 billion in economic aid, support NATO in Europe 3,500 miles away and have fought in Vietnam 9,000 miles away to contain Communist expansionism, while we allow ourselves to be talked out of the secure Canal Zone and Panama Canal in our own back yard.

The real question is not the surrender of U.S. sovereignty in the U.S. control of the great canal versus Panamanian control. It is U.S. control versus Communist control.

We can only hope that an alarmed public from which the facts have been withheld will support Rep. Flood's House group and blow the Fulbright-Kennedy Senate putsch right out of the water.

Ray Cromley Says

Nixon Moved to Avert the War

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Because so much has been said on what the United States should and should not have done before the India-Pakistan war, exactly what this country did do should be put on the record.

The story begins March 25, 1971, the day Pakistan decided to establish military rule in East Bengal.

Within the next three weeks President Nixon suspended all new licenses and stopped the shipment of all military supplies out of American depots, and all other supplies under U.S. government control. That was $35 million in arms.

The only arms that continued to Pakistan were $4 to $5 million on old licenses already in commercial channels.

The United States has made no new economic development loans to Pakistan since March, 1971.

Mr. Nixon committed $90 million for the support of refugees in India. At the specific request of the Indian government, which was concerned that there would be another major outflow of refugees which would make their problem totally unmanageable, the United States committed another $150 million to avert famine in East Pakistan. With Pakistani concurrence, this was distributed through international agencies to avert suspicion that these supplies might be used to strengthen Islamabad's authority.

This was more than was contributed by the rest of the world combined.

In addition, Mr. Nixon requested from Congress, in the Agency for International Development budget, an additional $250 million to continue this aid.

All this adds up to more than a half-billion dollars for relief of refugees, to ease suffering in India and to prevent more refugees from coming into India.

In July in New Delhi, a Nixon representative explained to Indian Prime Minister Gandhi and Foreign Minister Swayam Singh that this country would not be making public statements on the situation because we wanted to use our influence through diplomacy.

These two top Indian officials indicated they understood the U.S. decision. They made no criticism of it. They did criticize the arms shipments mentioned above.

The United States suggested and Pakistan agreed that East Bengal be returned to civilian rule by the end of December, 1971.

The United States urged India and Pakistan a mutual withdrawal of troops from the border. India rejected this.

Mr. Nixon urged a unilateral withdrawal of Pakistani troops from the border. That was accepted by Pakistan. The Indian prime minister was told of the Pakistan offer to withdraw its troops unilaterally from the border. There was no response.

The United States urged amnesty for the 10 million refugees. Pakistan accepted.

A representative of Mr. Nixon approached President Yahya Kan of Pakistan three times to urge negotiations with the Bangla Desh People in Calcutta. He accepted in principle.

This government established contact with the Bangla Desh in Calcutta and during August, September and October eight meetings took place. The U.S. government was told by its contacts in Calcutta the Indian government discouraged such negotiations.

The U.S. Government also asked and secured permission from the president of Pakistan to permit the United States to establish contact with Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, jailed leader of the Awami League of East Bengal, through his defense attorney.

In these talks, the U.S. representatives made clear to the leaders of Pakistan that this country favors autonomy for East Bengal. The Pakistani replies convinced them President Yahya Khan was ready to grant substantial political autonomy to that area. This was passed on to the Indians.

The Indian government was kept informed of all these things. Secretary of State Rogers saw the Indian ambassador 18 times. On behalf of Mr. Nixon personally, a White House staff member met with the Indian ambassador seven times.

All this information was repeated to Mrs. Gandhi during her Washington visit. It was emphasized to her the United States would attempt to arrange negotiations between the Pakistan government and members of the Awami League specifically approved by the imprisoned Sheikh Mujibur.

On Nov. 15, the United States told the Pakistani foreign secretary that this country believed it was time for Pakistan to devise a maximum program for autonomy in East Bengal. The foreign secretary said he could not give an answer until he returned to his country, the week of Nov. 22. This information was transmitted to India.

On Nov. 19, the United States told the Indian ambassador this government was prepared to discuss with India and with Pakistan a precise timetable for the establishment of political autonomy in East Bengal.

On Nov. 22, military action started.

Communists Recapture Plain of Jars

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces recaptured the Plain of Jars in northern Laos on Monday night despite the intervention of U.S. air power that cost four American planes.

The last two government positions on the plain 100 miles northeast of Vientiane fell to North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces who inflicted more than 500 casualties on Thai and Laotian defenders in three days of heavy attacks. It was the fourth time in 2½ years that the plain had changed hands.

Thai and Laotian defenders were reported retreating to the south and west, leaving most of their dead and wounded behind.

North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces were reported retreating to the south and west, leaving most of their dead and wounded behind.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire drove back medical evacuation aircraft. The Laotian government's Thai allies held on to two positions close to the Plain of Jars.

South Vietnamese troops backed by U.S. air strikes, are conducting parallel operations aimed at keeping the North Vietnamese away from their borders.

The Saigon command claimed 45 North Vietnamese troops were killed in two battles Monday. A communique said South Vietnamese losses were one killed and two wounded.

More than 7,000 Cambodian government troops began a drive to relieve the towns of Prakham and Taing Kauk, on the northeastern front 45 miles from Phnom Penh. Heavy U.S. air strikes supported the operation to lift a 10-day siege by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

In South Vietnam, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops shelled two bases in the Saigon region before dawn and made a sapper attack on the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division at Lai Khe, 29 miles north of Saigon.

Two South Vietnamese were killed and 10 were wounded at Lai Khe, and one U.S. helicopter gunship was slightly damaged at Phu Loi, 13 miles north of Saigon.

U.S. Dollar Starts Returning to Favor

LONDON (UPI)—The dollar in its first test since devaluation started a slow return to favor after months of weakness when trading resumed in some European exchange markets today, moving well above its official exchange rate parity in several centers.

Financiers started taking some profits in early trading but moved slowly when switching some of their holdings in pounds, francs and West German marks back into the U.S. currency to cash in on their gambles on a dollar devaluation.

There was no panic rush and no flood of early business in London, Paris, Frankfurt or Zurich in early dealing. "Everything is very orderly. We are still feeling our way," a British banker said.

The Washington agreement of Saturday, which devalued the dollar by more than 8 per cent and raised the price tag of most major currencies, was facing its first practical test in the markets which had been shut Monday to sort out new exchange rates.

The new-dollar dollar was immediately stronger in relation to both the British pound and French franc in early business.

The dollar improved sharply to 2.5550 to the pound in London, which meant the pound was close to its agreed "floor" level, or the lowest price it may reach in terms of the U.S. currency which is 2.5471 dollars to the pound.

This meant that the dollar, equally, was not far from its "ceiling" in relation to the British pound. The pound sterling's new central exchange rate after its upward revaluation now is 2.6057 dollars.

This early price was close to what dealers had predicted and followed the pattern already set in New York's foreign exchange early trading in Frankfurt.

Experts said it was probable some operators will prefer to wait for the dust to settle and perhaps the pound's value to rise more before cashing in.

They can now benefit from fairly high British interest rates which was not possible for some foreign holders of sterling before the Washington agreement.

The dollar made a strong start in Paris. In the interbank deals the financial dollar changed hands for 5.25 to 5.28 francs, about 2.8 per cent above its new dollar parity of 5.1157 francs.

The government-controlled commercial dollar opened at between 5.22 and 5.23 francs, compared with the highest permitted level of 5.2310 francs.

In West Germany "everybody appears to take a wait-and-see attitude to find out how things are going to develop," a dealer commented on the light aid, commenting on the light

Pay Board Faces Tough Decision On Several Aerospace Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board faces one of its toughest decisions today: review of several new aerospace contracts calling for a 12 per cent first year raise.

The board issued tough-sounding new rules last Friday saying that even special circumstances can't justify raises of more than 7 per cent. The general rule is that new contracts can't raise pay more than 5.5 per cent a year.

The board was to review several contracts by the United Auto Workers and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists covering various units of North American Rockwell Corp., Boeing Co., Lockheed Aircraft Corp., McDonnell Douglas Corp., United Aircraft Corp. and LTV Aerospace Corp. Except for United, these are understood to follow the general pattern of the UAW contract with North American, which calls for a 51-cent increase in the current hourly average of $4.32, an 11.8 per cent boost.

The UAW argues that 31 cents of the raise is a cost-of-living catch-up called for in their 1968 contract, and that the remainder of the raise falls within guidelines.

But some board insiders fear that failure to cut the raise to 7 per cent or less would be likely to shake public confidence.

In the five weeks since the wage freeze ended the board has ruled on only two other contracts, approving a one-year raise of 15 per cent for the United Mine Workers and clearing the first part of a 42-month contract raising pay 47 per cent for the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

However, both of those contracts were, in some respect, special cases and did not represent as clear a test of the rule as will the aerospace pacts.

In developments Monday: President Nixon officially lifted the 10 per cent import surcharge he imposed Aug. 15 as part of his anti-inflation program, and the Treasury Department said the measure brought $430 million into the nation's coffers through Dec. 3.

The United States agreed Saturday to lift the surcharge as part of an agreement realigning the relative values of the currencies of the Group of Ten richest non-Communist nations.

The Price Commission reaffirmed its intention to allow local rent control agencies to control proposed rent increases, but reserved the right to roll back any increases it considers inflationary.

Merchant Ship Rescues 34 From Stricken Tanker

MIAMI (UPI) — An American merchant ship rescued 34 crewmen from the flaming tanker Calypso off the north coast of Cuba early today but the captain and five men stayed aboard in an attempt to save the vessel, the Coast Guard reported.

The Coast Guard said a lifeboat was alongside the Cyprus-registered Calypso in case the skeleton crew, which also included a radio operator and an engineer, decided to leave the stricken ship.

The pilot of a Coast Guard plane that flew over the Calypso said the U.S. merchant vessel Green Port had safely sinking.

taken aboard 34 of the crew and radioed there were no reported injuries from the Calypso's engine-room fire.

The pilot gave the Calypso's location as three-and-one-half miles off Cayo Coco, a large key of the north coast of Cuba's Camaguey Province. He said the tanker appeared to be

Loeks Gives Talk on Jetport At Chamber Breakfast Meeting

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — Stewart Jetport, a household word in Orange County, has created considerably less concern in the Kingston area, as evidenced by a quiet meeting on the topic this morning at the monthly Chamber of Commerce breakfast.

C. David Loeks, president of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, the privately financed planning agency that has devoted much study to the controversial Stewart question, discussed the jetport's impact on the Hudson Valley region before some 60 businessmen at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Loeks devoted much of his talk to the jetport's impact on the Newburgh area, and mentioned Ulster County and Kingston only briefly.

It is Loeks' belief that a jetport at Stewart will have less impact on Ulster County than the construction of the New York State thruway, and about the same impact as development of the State University College at New Paltz.

The Towns of Shawangunk, Plattekill, Marlboro and New Paltz will be most directly affected by the jetport's "spinoff," said Loeks. He indicated that its effect on Kingston will be minimal; said that it might persuade some businesses to locate in Kingston because of its proximity to Stewart; and minimize any adverse ecological effects the jetport may have on the immediate Kingston area.

Loeks said Pattern envisions Stewart as eventually being 25 per cent the size of New York's Kennedy airport, and about the same size as an airport serving San Diego or Buffalo.

If today's meeting proved one thing, it's that Stewart Jetport has failed to excite or anger most of Ulster County; and that residents here are not likely to become engulfed by the urban sprawl that threatens Orange County and Newburgh.

As Loeks said at the end of his address, "If I was in Newburgh, I wouldn't get out of this room alive."

Roy O. Disney Dead at 78

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI)—

Roy O. Disney, whose behind-the-scenes business acumen built an entertainment empire on his brother Walt's talent for drawing lovable talking animals and making innocent dreams come true, died late Monday night. He was 78.

The cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage that took the pioneer movie executive's life at 11:45 p.m. PST (2:45 a.m. EST) at St. Joseph's Hospital, a Disney studio spokesman announced.

Roy Disney inherited the Disney entertainment empire, and was its chief moving spirit, following the death of Walt Disney from cancer in 1966. His official title was chairman of the board and chief executive officer. His real function, as he saw it, however, was keeper of the wholesome spirit that Disney created, and that permeated their cartoons, movies and amusement parks.

Book Store Case Adjourned

KINGSTON

The case of Charles Fenner, 49, of Stony Point, who was arrested on Oct. 4 and again on Oct. 5 on charges of obscenity second degree has been adjourned by City Judge Hubert A. Richter to Jan. 17 and the defendant has been continued in bail of $1,000.

Fenner was arrested after police in command of Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman raided an Adult Book Store the defendant reportedly operated at 702 Broadway and seized a large quantity of material that police termed obscene or pornography.

Magazines, books, movie film, pictures and other items were taken from the store by police.

In court Monday, Judge Richter made known he was denying motions at this time, previously made by both sides that requested an adversary hearing during which the Court would examine the confiscated items to determine whether in his opinion they were obscene.

A suppression hearing was held and Judge Richter reserved decision. The hearing was held to decide whether evidence should be suppressed. Assistant District Attorney John Dall Vecchia appeared for the People at the court proceedings and Fenner appeared with Robert Cramer, New York City attorney.

Guilty Plea Out of Order

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —

A judge ruled Monday the guilty plea of a professor accused of telephoning a bomb threat to a college should not have been accepted.

Judge John J. Conway of Monroe County Court said Dr. William H. Owens, 50, of nearby Brockport State College, was allowed to plead guilty shortly after his arrest without the benefit of counsel.

The judge's returned to the Town of Sweden court "for repleading and further proceedings."

State police arrested Owens Oct. 12, 1970, and charged him with aggravated harassment.

... 'Twas 3 DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS and all through the store, merchandise was stacked, there was hub-bub and uproar, the slacks were all hung, by the sport coats with care, in the hopes that the right color, would please the "old bear," and Al in his Northweave, and Jack in his "flares", are busy selling their excellent wares.

The noise of the customers filling the store, draw many new shoppers thru the door,

While Kevin is selling the Puritan sweater, Alex is opening a golfers letter, and in the back amid all the wrapping and string, Maripat is busy "doing her thing" upstairs in Boys wear where selections are great, Dale can help choose his gift, it's not too late.

But soon the BIG DAY will arrive and the smiles, will tell you that they're pleased with all the new styles,

And we'll be happy that we helped you select, the fabric and color that proved so correct, so stop in tonight, don't wait 'til tomorrow, we'd hate to have anyone filled with sorrow.

And last but not least we're happy to say, we wish you and yours a most Happy Christmas Day!

Rocky Playing Cards Right on Proposed Tax Package

By KIRTLAND I. KING

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) Governor Rockefeller may have a difficult job getting his proposed $475 million tax package through the special session of the legislature but he's playing his cards right.

His decision to announce details of the tax hike, including a 5 per cent surcharge on incomes, before the lawmakers dealt with reapportionment was a good move according to party leaders.

All the lawmakers, up for reelection next fall, know the exact boundaries of their respective districts. Most of them will find they now have constituents they have not served before.

"After the reapportionment session," one GOP leader said,

"the members can go back home and take true soundings of how their new constituents feel about the state's financial crisis."

"I am sure they will find the people want state services continued and they are willing to pay for them. These fellows may have a different attitude before the special tax session gets under way."

Rockefeller's next move was to talk with President Nixon and a leading Democratic member of the House of Representatives on revenue sharing. He was given commitments by both.

The President told him when Congress passes the revenue-sharing plan, it will become effective in January rather than next July. And, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., promised to come to Albany to explain the federal plan to the New York legislators.

Rockefeller said the Washington plan would mean about $375 million more for New York State and would go a long way in closing the gap between income and outgo.

The governor is certain he will NOT be able to pass his tax plan with only Republican votes and is hoping for Democratic support. He wants at least enough Democratic votes to put the new tax increase over.

At a recent news conference, Rockefeller told reporters unless the new taxes are authorized, drastic steps will have to be taken to balance the budget. And, he is sure no lawmaker will want to see the alternatives put into effect.

"Unless we get the taxes, we will have to close many state facilities, including some mental hospitals, and cut back state financial aid to localities," he added.

The lowering of state aid taxes and local officials want none of this procedure. They would prefer a statewide tax and are urging their legislators to go along on the governor's package.

There's an old saying: You can't vote for all appropriations and against all taxes.

Some lawmakers think they can.

IRS Requests Early Issue Of W-2 Forms

ALBANY

Employers, including the officials of towns, cities and the state are being asked by Donald T. Hartley, director of the Internal Revenue Service in Northeastern New York State, to make plans for the issuance of Withholding Forms W-2 early in January.

Banks, insurance companies, brokerage firms, and others who issue dividend Form 1099 are also requested to make earlier issuances.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates there will be 5.2 million refund checks valued at $1.4 billion for the next filing season. The cooperation of employers will enable the service to process the returns and issue the refunds earlier than in previous years, according to Hartley.

Johnsons To Gather For Ceremony

STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, his wife Lady Bird, and their children and grandchildren will gather tonight for a tree-lighting ceremony and a session of Christmas carol singing.

Officials said one of Johnson's four grandchildren will turn on the lights of the official Christmas tree at the LBJ State Park, near the LBJ ranchhouse—probably with an assist from grandfather.

The Johnson children, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent of Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb of Charlottesville, Va., and the grandchildren, will stay for a caroling program and a social hour afterward at the park's visitor center.

Three Are Sentenced in Dutchess Court

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI)—Three men were sentenced in Dutchess County Court Monday to 15 to 30 years on their conviction for possession and sale of a dangerous drug.

Judge Joseph Juidice ordered Clifford Kennedy, Joseph Mosca and Cornice Hawthorne, all of New York City, to serve the sentences in the Ossining Correction Facility.

The three were arrested in a parking lot in Fishkill last March and police said they had two pounds of heroin with them at the time.

Dist. Atty. Albert Rosenblatt said they were given a minimum sentence, that they could have received life terms.

November Climb In Unemployment Rate

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—The state's unemployment rate climbed four-tenths of 1 per cent in November, to 5.9 per cent, the State Labor Department reported today.

Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine said the increased number of jobless was due primarily to seasonal layoffs in the construction and service industries.

Total employment of 7,485,000 was reported during the month while the unemployment total was 490,000. The employment total equaled the number recorded in October while the number of jobless increased by 30,000.

Unemployment rose in the state's seven major labor markets, the department reported. The Rochester area had the lowest unemployment rate at 3.9 per cent—up .4 from October. The Utica area had the highest jobless percentage rate, 8.2 per cent—up 1.1 per cent from the previous month.

All merchandise involved in the incidents was recovered. A security officer at Sears Roebuck & Co. store in the Kingston Shopping Plaza arrested Richard Teague, 19, of 30 Washington Avenue, and accused him of the theft of merchandise valued at $6.91.

She was picked up after she left the store, authorities said.

Sharon T. McTigh, 16, of 33 Prospect Street, Pawling, and Malda T. Rompon, 19, of Route 1, Box 227C, Ulster Park, were each accused of the alleged theft of a pair of slacks valued at $10 at Britts Store in the uptown shopping plaza.

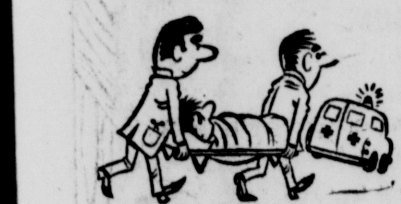

Local Company Submits Bid

KINGSTON

Wiltwyck General Construction of Kingston was the only bidder on a project to renovate a house at 79 Franklin Street into one and two-bedroom apartments, today, at bid openings held at the offices of the Kingston Home Improvement Program on Franklin Street.

Frank Cardinale, director of the program, told The Freeman that Wiltwyck bid $39,700 on the building program. The building is owned by Lake Katrine Realty which has already renovated two adjoining buildings. Renovation of this third building will complete that block from Furnace Street to Clinton Avenue.

Cardinale said it will take about two months for federal approval of the project. A spring construction date is expected.

Costs for BOCES Building Plans

NEW PALTZ Paltz, $4.60; Esopus, $3.51; BOCES Informational Meetings have been held in the school districts of Ulster County during the past four weeks. Dr. Jack L. Roosa, district superintendent, and Arthur Withall, BOCES board member, and other BOCES administrators have presented information about the Building Program and have conducted question and answer sessions.

At each of the informational meetings the question of finance was discussed. The total cost of the BOCES building proposal is $7,500,000. A Federal grant of $500,000 and State Building Aid of $4,000,000 will reduce the cost to the local residents to $3,000,000. This amount, plus interest will be paid over a twenty year period.

The amount which each school district will have to provide annually for the BOCES building Proposal is: Ellenville—$42,517; Highland—$27,364; Kingston—$173,883; New Paltz—$31,625; Onteora—$56,299; Rondout Valley—$45,472; Saugerties—$63,387; and Wallkill—$34,216.

The cost to local taxpayers for the Building Proposal for each thousand dollars of assessed valuation is:

Ellenville Central, Warwarsing, $2.48; Mamaroneck, $1.61; Rochester, $1.73.

Highland Central—Lloyd, $3.73; Marlborough, $3.51; New Kingston City—Esopus, $3.28; Hurley, $3.28; Kingston (town), $3.49; Marletown, $2.79; New Paltz, $4.30; Rosendale, $5.08; Saugerties, $3.75; Ulster, $4.30; Woodstock, $9.90; Kingston (City), $1.64.

New Paltz Central—New Paltz, $3.83; Rosendale, $4.55; Plattekill, $1.03; Lloyd, $3.12; Gardiner, $3.83; Rochester, $2.27; Esopus, $2.94.

Onteora Central—Woodstock, $6.2; Lexington, $8.1; Shandaken, $1.47; Olive, $3.49; Hurley, $2.02; Marletown, $1.94.

Rondout Valley Central—Rochester, $2.91; Marletown, $3.20; Rosendale, $5.83; Wallking, $4.27.

Saugerties Central—Saugerties, $4.76; Woodstock, $1.15; Ulster, $5.50.

Wallkill Central—Shawangunk, $3.30; Plattekill, $1.35; Gardiner, $5.08; Newburgh, $1.05; Montgomery, $2.00.

The need for the BOCES Building Program is great and the building should be considered a long range investment for the youth of the County, Dr. Roosa said.

Voting on the Proposal will be held at the usual school district election polling places from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 19.

CENTRAL SITE — Dr. Jack L. Roosa, district superintendent and executive officer of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, points out approximate location of the proposed vocational and special education center at a 50-acre site in Bloomington. The site was chosen for its central location to the eight component districts of Ulster County BOCES. The proposal will come to a county-wide referendum on Jan. 19.

UCCC Grant Is Approved

STONE RIDGE
Ulster County Community College has received approval for a $9,905 federal grant to provide necessary coordination for its new one-year program in Landscape Development and Maintenance which begins next September, President George B. Erbstein announced today.

Dr. Erbstein said that part of the grant funds will be used to support a coordinator for this new program. The coordinator will meet with advisory committee members, college faculty and staff, student counseling personnel, and representatives of local business and industry for the purpose of developing this new program.

"We're most fortunate to receive this grant," said President Erbstein, "and it will be most helpful to the college at this time in fulfilling an important need for the community."

The new program approved previously by the State University of New York, is expected to assist persons interested in landscape, greenhouse and horticulture employment. It will increase occupational education possibilities for additional numbers of students and is expected to serve as a model for developing other vocational technical curricula.

Parking Tickets Discussed At Village Board Meeting

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE
The practice of charging $5 for a $1 parking ticket in Ellenville if the original summons is not answered within 30 days is contrary to village ordinances, according to a legal opinion given to the village board by Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg at the Monday night meeting.

The practice has been in effect about 10 years.

The question had been raised from the floor by former village trustee Rivan Krieger at the last board meeting. Krieger asked any board member to ask Nirenberg to deliver a legal opinion on the fine-raising practice.

The difficulty is the ordinance (Section 116 of the village's Traffic Code) uses the word "fine." Nirenberg said fines are the result of sentencing by a judge after "guilt is legally established."

In Ellenville, the practice has been for the person receiving the parking ticket to pay at the police station. If the ticketee waited more than 30 days to do so, he was told the ante had been upped to $5. No judge or jury was involved in the process.

Looking at the ordinance, and the practice, Nirenberg stated there is no authority whatever to charge a person the $5. He suggested ways the present ordinance could be amended, but advised the board to wait to do so until the long-awaited codification of the village's ordinances is completed, which should be within the next few months.

He advised the board to instruct the police department to stop the $5 practice, in the mean time.

Nirenberg also read a letter from the Appellate Division informing the village it would have to pay the expenses of the case involving the Ellenville NAACP and Village Police Justice Ronald W. Elias. The village has sought not to pay them, contending Elias had been cleared and the charges should be borne by the NAACP. The letter, dated Dec. 17 and from Frederick Miller, the Appellate Division's deputy director, said the village was to pay the charges as two of the charges made by the NAACP were sustained, though Elias received no punishment.

Nirenberg characterized an attempt to appeal the decision as "a waste of good money." This left the question of how to pay the expenses, as they were not a budgeted item. Village Clerk Lillian Finkelstein was directed by Mayor Robert Dowling to write to the Division of Audit and Control for their ideas on how to do it.

The new ice skating rink has been erected on the old American Legion property, with the aid of Town of Wawarsing men and machinery, but it is suffering from the same problem which plagued the last rink the village had.

Vandals have thrown rocks, soda cans and dirt onto the rink as the ice was forming, and have made the rink unusable, according to Dowling. No solution was suggested for ending the vandalism, other than contacting youth groups to tell them those hurting the rink are really hurting themselves. The present damage to the rink can be repaired at the next "hard freeze," according to public works consultant Robert Lockwood.

Dowling looked back on the year 1971, and found it mainly good. He noted improvements in the village's water, sewer and street systems, the opening of four new stores in the village, the increased assessed valuation (up $110,000 in 1971 after a drop in 1970), Flood Control "finally got started," and the approval of housing for the village.

He thanked all who had worked for the village, especially those serving on committees such as the Housing Authority, the Zoning Board, and the Citizen's Advisory Committee.

CHRISTMAS DINNERS supplied by the Salvation Army are packed and readied for distribution by (L-R) Mrs. Maureen Graham of the Zonta Club; Sister Maryanna of Benedictine Hospital; Helen Geneis of the Zonta Club; Capt. Leonard Gower of The Salvation Army and Sister Mary Charles of WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert's performance in his first year on the job has disappointed members who hoped he would invigorate the age-stiffened legislative body.

But, although most of them feel Albert could have done more, their general attitude is that any rapid change was probably too much to expect.

Even one of Albert's strongest supporters, Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., who admires his ability and legislative skills, finds it necessary to qualify his year-end judgment.

"Given the circumstances," says Bolling, "he's done a good job."

The circumstances Bolling re-

Carl Albert's Performance Disappointing

ferred to also are the ones that led to the dashed hopes of those who expected more of Albert: the feudalistic system that leaves the speaker as the weak king surrounded by the powerful dukes who rule House committees.

Albert learned their power early. One of his first acts as speaker was to put through the Democratic caucus—the opposition of the chairmen—the rules change that would have given him a key to open committee deadlocks on legislation.

The chairmen took the fight to the House floor, where with the help of senior committee members and Republicans they easily defeated the proposed rule.

After that instructive lesson, Albert slipped back into the role of broker and mediator between the chairmen and the various blocs of members interested in specific legislation. Albert's hand has been further weakened by the fact the Democrats are out of power at the executive level.

Under normal circumstances, the speaker functions as the President's legislative boss, having available the full arsenal of rewards and punishments that can be meted out by the executive branch to bring chairmen into line.

Now the presidential power is being used with increasing effectiveness to block Albert's designs, both through vetoes and the threat of them, and through the Republican-Southern Democrat coalition, which can produce a majority whenever the right buttons are pushed.

Hemmed in and harassed as he is, however, many critics say Albert could still exert a more forceful leadership role if he chose to.

In particular, they think he should speak out more on major issues. An example of the influence a few words from the speaker can have was seen in the recent House vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to permit public school prayers.

After maintaining silence for weeks despite urgings from both sides to make his views known, Albert said at a news conference shortly before the vote that he opposed the amendment and delivered a brief but telling speech against it during debate.

It was defeated and both sides feel Albert's statement was a crucial factor in the outcome.

Despite their disappointments many House Democrats, like faithful fans of a losing baseball team, are looking for better things next year.

They are counting on Albert's strong party loyalty and his intense desire to see Richard Nixon removed from the White House to make him a more determined leader in an election year.

Most of all, their hopes are based on Albert's known ambition to be a strong and effective speaker in the model of his old mentor, Sam Rayburn. Albert rarely unburies himself in public, but there can be little doubt he has felt frustrated in his relationships with the committee chairmen and shares to some extent the disappointments of the members.

Three Firms
Are Fined

ALBANY
Three area firms paid penalties during November in settlement of charges by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets that the firms had violated pure food or economic fraud laws.
Three other area firms had their cases referred to the Attorney General's Office for prosecution of a civil action to collect the penalty.
The J. O. Ryder Rendering Co., Inc., of Matamoras, Pa., whose feed was sampled at the Clintondale Supply Co., in Clintondale, paid a penalty of $150 for commercial feed deficient in protein.
Abe and Sam Waruch of Kerhonkson paid a penalty of $100 for sale of adulterated milk.
Sol Tour, Hav-A-Snack Bar, RD 2, Newburgh, paid a penalty of $50 for sale of a milk shake containing excessive bacteria.
Payment of a penalty in settlement and compromise is done under Section 39 of the Agriculture and Markets law. The payment does not constitute an admission of a violation of the law.
Cases referred to the Attorney General's office were against Angeloni's High Peak Mt. Lodge and The New Gazebo, both in Haines Falls, for a product served with coffee not properly identified, and Alice M. Imperiale and John J. Murray of The Carousel on Route 42 in Lexington for unsanitary conditions in frozen desserts.

ALBANY
An offer of about $1.5 million in restitution has been offered to New York residents who invested in three unregistered real estate syndicates offered by Harry Macklowe, of 420 East 72nd Street, New York City, according to the State Attorney General's Office.
Macklowe is the defendant in an injunction proceeding charging violation of the New York Real Estate Syndicate Act.
The real estate ventures are 866 Second Avenue Joint Venture, 31 East 28 Street Company, and 130 East 40th Street Associates.

PRISONER INTERROGATION — Indian Major General Dalber Singh (R) questions Pakistani prisoners in Khulna, East Pakistan. This town, 90 miles northeast of Calcutta, was the following his nation's defeat at the hands of India. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

REMOVED FOR BURIAL — Bodies of Dacca's intellectuals, killed by Pakistanis before their surrender, are removed for burial. President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan resigned

Bangla-Desh ... World's New Nation

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Conceived in an inferno of bitterness and bloodshed, a new nation has been born to the world — Bangla-Desh.

It emerged from the dark recesses of suppressed hostility and resentment and onto the fiery path trod by most new nations seeking equality among a family of old and new peoples — war.

The roots of Bangla-Desh (Bengal Nation) are embedded in the soft, sodden soil of what was the eastern wing of Pakistan, a nation conceived by a British midwife which sought to end Hindu-Muslim enmity in India before the dying empire departed the Asian subcontinent in 1947.

Pakistan was established as a nation of two "wings" separated by nearly 1,000 miles of India. If the geography of the nation was an unnatural one, so was its sociological makeup.

In the west were Punjabis and Pathans, tall and austere desert dwellers. In the east were the short and swarthy Bengalis, unruly inhabitants of a tropical area who had a history of political ferment and violence in British India.

Although the east had a population edge, West Pakistan quickly asserted authority; it filled the government and managerial jobs and dominating business in the east.

Deprivation added to discontent.

After sporadic violence in the east, the situation boiled when President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, a former general, held a general election in December, 1970, for a national assembly that was to draft a constitution for a return to civil government following 13 years of military rule.

The normally fragmented Bengalis voted overwhelmingly for the Awami League party of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, a charismatic 51-year-old politician, in election results that evoked surprise. Rahman's platform was autonomy for East Pakistan, and he got all of East Pakistan's assembly seats except two.

Consequently, Yahya Khan announced March 2 that the opening of the assembly was postponed indefinitely. His words signaled some of the frothing passions of the Bengalis to boil over. They went on the rampage in several areas of East Pakistan, killing non-Bengali Moslem shopkeepers and businessmen.

Halted Violence Rahman was able to halt the violence, but only by carrying forward his drive for autonomy. The sheikh called a partial strike in the east and launched a civil disobedience movement.

By March 15 the movement had escalated into a virtual takeover of East Pakistan by the Awami League.

At 10:30 the same night, the Pakistan army moved into Dacca with a terrible swiftness. Within the next two days, blood ran in the streets and alleys and flames licked hundreds of feet into the sky.

After the army asserted its control in Dacca, the troops planned to fan out from various garrisons to wrest the countryside from the grip of the Awami League and the people.

It took about six weeks for the army to push its way to the borders with India, which surround East Pakistan on three sides, burning villages and killing unknown thousands on the way in what was later to be called genocide.

As the army forged through the countryside, the first trickles of refugees into India began reaching 9.77 million, according to the Indian government.

As the army crackdown continued it became known that Rahman had been arrested and had been taken to West Pakistan. On April 17, members of the Awami League leadership who had escaped to Calcutta, India, proclaimed the government-in-exile of Bangla-Desh.

India provided a sympathetic refuge for the rebels and Parliament quickly pledged "full support" for their cause. Clashes between Indian troops and Pakistani forces pursuing the rebels back across the border began to emerge.

The tense situation between India and Pakistan began to worsen. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, boosted by a friendship treaty signed with the Soviet Union in August, left in October to explain her position to Western leaders.

Shortly before her departure, Pakistan moved nine divisions to India's western border and India followed suit. During Mrs. Gandhi's absence, Indian troops made their first attack in force into East Pakistan, following the frontier in "self defense," continued Pakistani shelling of a town in an area where the rebels had bases.

Mrs. Gandhi apparently had decided that she had waited long enough. There were further unpublicized attacks into East Pakistan. Following Mrs. Gandhi's return and charges of "full scale war" by Pakistan, India announced its troops were authorized to cross the frontier in "self defense."

Total but undeclared war finally erupted the night of Dec. 16, 1971.

Chicago's Daley Drops Controversial Candidate

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, his Illinois Democrats shaken by two indictments and apparently growing black resistance to organizational politics, reversed himself Monday and dropped controversial Edward V. Hanrahan from the party's 1972 slate.

Daley has been under growing criticism since Dec. 7 when he chose Hanrahan to run for re-election as state's attorney for Cook County which includes Chicago. Hanrahan lost a vital round last week in an attempt to quash charges that he obstructed justice in connection with a 1969 raid by his office on a Black Panther apartment, in which two Panther party leaders were killed.

Coupled with a federal indictment of Otto Kerner, also a Daley-backed Democrat, charged with shady racketeer stock dealings when he was governor, and angry murmurings from liberals and blacks, Daley was under increasing pressure from party candidates to strengthen the election slate for the March 21 state primary.

Daley met in an all-day emergency session Sunday with top Democrats and after a brief session Monday announced that Hanrahan would be replaced by Judge Raymond Berg, 40, who has a reputation for cleaning up the scandal-ridden traffic division of the Circuit Court.

Hanrahan, once thought to be a possible successor to Daley, was not immediately available to comment.

'Old Lovers' Living In a New World

DEAR ABBY: I am a clergyman, and the letter from "Old Lovers" fascinated me. It concerns a widow of 63 and a widower of 66 who have known each other for many years, love each other, and want to marry.

The problem: The gentleman's only income is a small Social Security check. Hers is Social Security and a VA pension from her deceased husband which she will lose if she remarries. Living on the gentleman's income is practically impossible, so they have been living together. Now their families have disowned them, their neighbors won't speak to them and they are social outcasts.

The purpose of religion and the state are not always parallel. A couple can be morally right, tho legally wrong.

I would recommend that this couple consult a lawyer about being married by a clergyman without the marriage being "legal," so the couple could retain their pensions. They could then declare their marriage to the world without sacrificing their income.

As a clergyman, I would be happy to perform such a nonlegal marriage ceremony. I have two somewhat similar (but somewhat different) situations.

One was a woman who could not marry the father of her yet unborn child because the man's divorce would not be final until after the baby was born. A lawyer recommended that they get a marriage license and then I marry them, even tho the legality of the marriage could be challenged. But the child would have the father's name, and after the baby was born, and the father was legally free to marry they could take out a legal license and have a second wedding. It was the charitable thing to do.

The other was a man and wife who had lived together for 12 years and had 10 children without... Here the state permitted me to marry them without their getting a marriage license which the children might see in the newspapers. This was the inspiration of their social workers, and I was proud that the first wedding in our new church could be this ceremony (without a license) for these poor, but radiant people.

So I would congratulate "Old Lovers" and tell them to be creative, and try to find a way to tell the world of their marriage.

PIERCE JOHNSON
United Methodist Church
Los Osos, Cal.

DEAR ABBY: I suggest that "Old Lovers" call a meeting of all their children and ask if they will make up the money which "Old Lovers" would lose if they got married.

As soon as the children know it might cost them, their objections to their parents' present arrangements would immediately dissolve. Sign this.

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to a letter signed "Old Lovers": The correspondent, a widow, age 63, states that if she and her gentleman friend marry, she will lose both the Social Security and Veterans Administration benefits which she is presently receiving because she is a widow.

I wish to point out that she will indeed lose her VA widow's benefit. However, if she remarries after age 60, she will not lose her entitlement to Social Security benefits. She will be entitled to one-half of her deceased husband's S.S. benefit, or to a wife's benefit, based upon the work of her new husband, whichever is greater.

Sincerely yours,
MORRIS TULCHINSKY
Social Security Adm.,
Kansas City, Mo.

DEAR ABBY: A quote by the late Sen. Winston Prouty, ranking minority member, Special Committee on Aging is, I think, the perfect answer for "Old Lovers," who are living together without marriage for financial reasons:

"Older Americans have earned the right to choose how they shall live. But many are denied this right by social attitudes and policies which reject them."

Respectfully submitted by,
MR. J. R. LINDERS
Bay Village, Ohio

DEAR ABBY: You suggested that people who didn't know where to register to vote should call the Democratic or Republican party headquarters.

Please! There is a better place to call. The County Board of Elections. They are listed in the telephone directory under the name of the county where one resides. (signed) RUTH AT THE COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTIONS

DEAR ABBY: Is it normal for a boy who is in the 8th grade to kiss his mother goodby every morning before he goes to school, and then wave a couple of times as he goes down the street?

I have two grown sons, and they stopped kissing me goodby in about 2d grade. Sign me...

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: The boy's behavior in this one instance could suggest that he has a rather strong attachment to his mother. But that doesn't necessarily mean there is anything abnormal about it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Bridge Gap Through Dancing

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI) — A veteran dancer would like to see more mothers and daughters up on their toes, learning to dance, and bridging the generation gap at the same time.

Carl Wolz, an associate professor of drama at the University of Hawaii, is spearheading a movement to bring dancing back to the people. He is president of the Hawaii State Dance Council, an organization funded by state and national funds and dedicated to "creating an atmosphere for statewide participation in dancing."

"Interest in dancing has declined over the centuries, with increasing technology and subsequent distractions," Wolz said. "But it seems to me that the more people dance, the fewer personal problems they have in their lives. Many Americans have lost the ability to express themselves through movement."

The council is re-awakening interest in all forms of dancing through workshops in the ethnic dances of Pacific and Asian countries, European folk dances, ballet and modern. The workshops are held several times a month and attract a cross-section of the community.

The workshops are led by highly skilled teachers, but Wolz said there is "no grading, no tests, no pass or fail, and if nothing else, the participants have a good time."

Wolz feels it's the process, not the product, that's important — "Dancing makes the child aware of his body and his movements. We spend 12 years teaching English but practically ignored."

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

DEAR MRS. POST: During the holidays I would like to have a champagne brunch or buffet. Please give me menus and time. I would like to have this on a Sunday (I was thinking about one o'clock)

DEAR DOROTHY: One o'clock a luncheon rather than a brunch. I would schedule your party for twelve — or "immediately after church services."

The menu is generally a combination of breakfast and lunch dishes. Chafing dishes may be filled with scrambled eggs, creamed chicken, or lobster newburg. The creamed chicken is delicious served over crisp waffles. Grilled tomatoes, sausages and crisp bacon should accompany scrambled eggs. Creamed chipped beef is another favorite and eggs benedict are always a hit. Bowls of fresh strawberries or melon balls make a light and delicious "dessert." Croissants or English muffins and toast should be served.

Be sure to have soft drinks, a punch and another "cocktail," such as a Bloody Mary, available. There are quite a few people who do not care for plain champagne — especially in the morning.

For suggestions about to whom, when, how, and what to give, you will find my booklet "Gifts and Giving" most helpful. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Last night we were planning to barbecue hamburgers, and the usual question arose of how to keep most of the meat from falling through the grill. My husband suggested using our frying spatter shield, the kind made with small mesh wire, a firm metal frame, and a wooden handle.

We put hamburger patties on the shield, set it on top of the grill, and it worked perfectly.

This could also be used for hot dogs.

I'd recommend this to be your "extra" shield just for this purpose.

Mrs. Joe T. White

Dear Heloise:

I had a problem with my husband's slacks getting creases from wire clothes hangers, but didn't want to buy the more expensive wooden suit hangers.

So I tried this...

I wrapped a few inches of an old bath towel around a metal hanger. Then I stitched the end down and, presto, a hanger that doesn't leave a crease.

Linda

Dear Heloise:

We gals, at one time or another, seem to make unnecessary purchases with our money.

For those of you with a guilty conscience about any money blunders you've made, I have just the answer.

I've set aside what I call my "dumb fund." Whenever I have a few extra dollars, they go straight into my fund. Then, when I spend my money on something foolish or unnecessary, I can withdraw the amount for my "dumb fund" and replace the money I've taken from our bank account.

This will please your husbands and show them that we gals really are conscientious about spending our money.

Mrs. L. W. Irmisch III

Ohhhhhhhhh, gal! Sneaky... but it works! And I think a real nifty idea. Thanks a heap.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Last year we purchased a 7-foot artificial green spruce tree for our home at Christmas. The store had a sample tree decorated with a heavy gold garland and very expensive foil decorations shaped like peacocks, with small electric lights on them.

I bought the heavy gold garland and when decorating the tree, found a box full of artificial Christmas corsages accumulated over many years. I used these at the points where the garland was scalloped around the tree.

This has proved a conversation piece when people call at our home during the holidays, and has given me a reason to continue to save those Christmas corsages.

Mrs. Ray Stockstad

Dear Heloise:

Up until yesterday I had trouble cleaning my hairbrushes...

I decided to try shaving cream to wash them and was delighted with the results.

It only takes minutes to clean them and my husband never misses his shaving cream!

Mrs. Diane Chapman

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that you can wash your combs sparkling clean by putting them into an old sock and then into the washer with a load of clothes...

Thanks Dad, and Merry Christmas.

We lived in an old gray house on a country road just outside a small midwestern town.

And every year on the Saturday before Christmas, my father would pile my sister, my two brothers and me into the cab of his pickup truck and drive us into town. We all had money saved and ready to spend on Christmas gifts. Dad would shop with us for a while, helping us pick out gifts for mother and advancing our allowances when our eyes got bigger than our budgets.

Then usually just before noon, he'd say he had some special shopping to do and that he'd better get to the bank before it closed.

When Christmas morning came, we'd gather round the tree and open our presents. And when we were finished unwrapping the trains, trucks, dolls and clothes; when Mom had thanked us each twice for the gifts we'd given her; and when we'd emptied our socks down to the last orange; my Dad would point to four small envelopes nestled in the tree. There was one for each of us. And every year for as far back as I can remember, each contained the results of his hurried trips to the bank on the Saturday before Christmas. A U. S. Savings Bond.

It's Christmas time at my house now. A house that's far away from that small midwestern town. A house that I could buy because I cashed in some old U. S. Savings Bonds I had to help with the down-payment. A house where two little kids are going to find envelopes in the Christmas Tree this year. Envelopes that contain U. S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

UCCC Wings Falcons, Points for Manhattan

POUGHKEEPSIE
When you shoot under 33 per cent, and still beat a major opponent in a conference showdown, you can count your holiday blessings.
Coach Mike Perry of Ulster County Community College was doing just that today, after watching his unbeaten Senators come from behind twice Monday night to defeat homestanding Dutchess Community, 73-66.
It was the 10th straight win for the Senators, who are now 4-0, in the Mid-Hudson Conference and 10-0 overall. Dutchess is now 7-2 overall and 3-1 in the conference.
The Ulster victory, also insured a Battle of the Unbeaten when the Senators host powerful Manhattan Community of New York Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the new Senate Gym.
It wasn't one of Ulster's more impressive showings of the season. Coach Perry admitted that Dutchess "did a pretty good job of defending us." But he also quickly noted that "we missed a lot of easy shots and played poorly in the first half."

UCCC continued its format of developing a new game hero with each outing. This time it was Nelson Marcelle. In addition to leading the team with 17 points, the speedy ball hawk picked off 10 rebounds and had five steals. Henry Nixon added 11 points and Cliff Weeks had 10.
"Marcelle gave his best game of the season," said Perry. "But Coleman Link and Nixon blew a lot of chippies that kept the game closer than it would have been."
With Keith Daley setting the

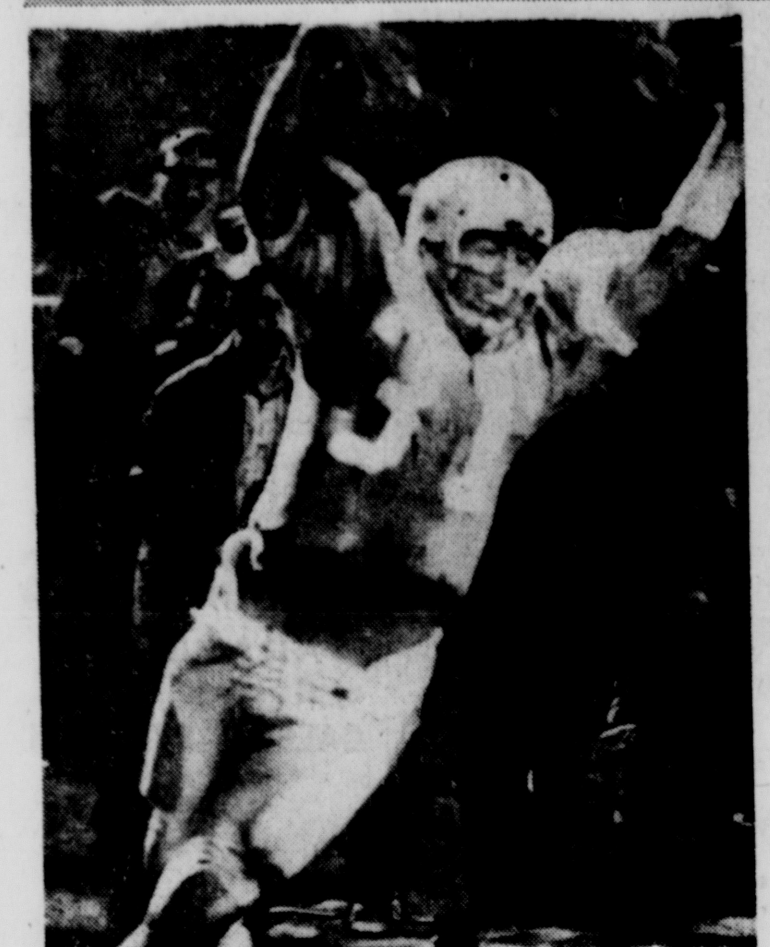

NELSON MARCELLE

pace, Coach El Evans' Falcons moved to a 25-17 lead with 8:30 left in the first half. At this point the Super Sub, Gary McDonald and Marcelle combined for a 10-point spurt, six by McDonald to move Ulster ahead 41-35 at the half.
A Daley deuce with 11:50 in the second half gave Dutchess its last lead. Nixon and Pete Koola hit with consecutive baskets to put Ulster ahead 57-53. Dutchess never seriously threatened again, although two free throws by Prentiss Thompson shaved Ulster's margin to 69-63 with 1:54 left to play.

Pete Koola, who scored 9 points, fouled out with seven minutes left to play. Three other Senators — Marcelle, Jackie Knowles and Link — were hanging in with four fouls each when the game ended.
Ulster's zone contained DCC's freshman ace Ray Brown and held him to 12 points. O'Brien hit 13 for the losers.
So the stage is set for Wednesday's confrontation with Manhattan. "It's our most important game of the season up to this point," Perry explained. "It would be quite a victory to start the holidays with. They have a big team, are stronger physically than we are, but we're ready."

Ulster will be idle until Jan. 8 after Manhattan and as Perry put it, "there's nothing to hold back."

Ohio Learns About Upsets

By United Press International
Ohio University got a taste of its own medicine Monday night. The Bobcats, who stunned Indiana and Ohio State to move into the No. 15 national ranking, went the upset route themselves Monday night as Wayne Grabiec hit four points in the last 55 seconds to pace Michigan to an 87-81 victory.
Grabiec converted a pair of free throws with 55 seconds left and then hit a layup with 39 seconds to go as Michigan took its first round game in the Michigan Invitational Tournament.
Henry Wilmore scored 22 points for the Wolverines in the first half, but was unable to play after the intermission when he bruised his right knee in a fall. Ernie Johnson scored 15 of his 26 points in the second half and Grabiec, whose free throws boosted Michigan to an 81-80 lead, had 14.
Toledo edged Detroit 77-76 in the opening game of the tournament.
In other action involving rated teams, No. 5 Southern California held off Iowa State 89-86. Ohio State (6) whipped Brown 62-56. Maryland (13) rallied to stop Loyola (Md.) 73-60 and Arizona State (17) crushed Fresno State 95-75.
Paul Westphal, the high scorer with 30 points, hit a pair of free throws in the closing minutes to boost Southern Cal ahead after Iowa State had rallied from a 53-38 deficit to take the lead. Martinez Denron had 24 points to lead the Iowa State attack.
Allan Horniak, Ohio State's leading scorer last season, made his debut a successful one with three points in the last 15 seconds that gave the KINGSTON night. Dan Brown and the 1-2 land, and is pretty much the Kingston High's cagers have a chance to keep a couple of streaks going tonight when they take on the Beacon Bulldogs in the Kate Walton Field House at 8 p.m. to head a light schedule of area high school basketball.

Only three other battles are on the card — Marlboro hosts Chester, Ellenville visits Onteora and Highland meets Rondout at Stone Ridge.
A win for the Maroon would give them three in a row, and two straight over the Bulldogs whom they defeated 73-45 in Beacon last week. Kingston has been a different team since the return of Tony Adams, and the locals can get up to the .500 mark tonight.
Beacon is big, but presents little obstacle to Mike Rienzo's squad. In their last encounter it was Ron Burris and Walt Houghtaling who provided the spark to the Kingston attack, plus Adam's game high 21 points. Barring foul trouble for the home forces, tonight's rematch should be pretty much of an instant replay.
Marlboro comes off a loss to New Paltz and into a three-way tie for second place with Coleman and Red Hook in the UCL's Southern Division. The Chester team is a non-league encounter for the Dukes, who should welcome the opportunity to iron out the wrinkles before he divisional competition begins.
George Salinovich will lead the attack for Ed Saggarese's quintet, who shouldn't take this one lightly. Last week Chester snapped a 19 game losing streak with a 107-95 win over Otisville. If that's as many points in Orange County as it is in Ulster, the Dukes will have all they can handle.

Kaline Hits $100G

DETROIT (UPI)—Al Kaline starts his 20th baseball season in 1972 as the first $100,000 player in the history of the Detroit Tigers. He could have begun his 19th with the status but he declined.
"If he doesn't deserve $100,000 nobody does," General Manager Jim Campbell of the Tigers said Monday at the announcement which put Detroit's star outfielder in the same financial category with the likes of Frank Robinson, Carl Yastrzemski and Hank Aaron—a bracket he's been in as a performer for some time now.
"In my book he's a Hall of Famer," Campbell said between puffs on his expensive cigar.
"Jim offered me $100,000 last year," Kaline said Monday, the day after his 37th birthday. "But I told him 'I can't sign this. I don't deserve it.'"
Tiger owner John Fetzer "wanted me to have it," said Kaline, who became the youngest player ever to win a batting title when he got his only one in 1955 at the age of 20.
"I don't know," Kaline said when asked why he turned down a raise of about $5,000 last year. "I just felt that last year he was just giving it to me because I'd been around a long time."
"I wanted to bounce back and have a good year. It's hard for me to say if I deserve it," Kaline said.
The veteran Tiger, who is one of the few major league players never to wear a minor league uniform, hit .294 last season so his lifetime batting average remains at exactly .300. He needs just 305 hits for a career total of 3,000, a figure "that's in the back of my mind—but I'd need a few more, good years to get it," he said.
Kaline brought the $100,000 1971 contract which he didn't sign to his news conference with him. He said just because he signed for that "this doesn't mean this is my last year. When you get to be 37 you can't say you're going to play three or four more years, though."
The contract "came as a complete surprise to me," Kaline said. "I just came down to make my annual visit and wish everybody a Merry Christmas."
The Tigers took more than a little heat last season because Kaline wasn't made a six-figure player.
"I thought about that," Kaline said. "I didn't mean to put Jim through anything by turning it down last year. A man has to live with himself. I didn't deserve it."

first four horses. The previous high of $251,187 was established last Friday.

There were 26 winners of the $9,353.40 superbet on Friday and 25 winners Saturday, each collecting $10,539.30.

Monday night's featured fourth race went to fast-closing Vernon Oregon, rushing up from fourth at the top of the stretch to nail Johnny Cool at the wire in a tight photo. River Road was third.

Vernon Oregon, piloted by Steven Warrington, a "hot driver" on the winter circuit, paid $17.00, $6.00 and $4.80. The mile over a track classified as "good" was spun off in 2:08.3.

The OTB handle also set a trot record when New Yorkers wagered $667,404 on the Monticello card, clipping the old mark of $640,410 established Friday.

The Superfecta which paid $1,287.90 was made up of Majestic Sir, Hal Strada, Wico Dares and Evanders Gift, a winning combination of 6-1-4-5.

Overall there were 218 Superfecta winners. Sixty-seven were at Monticello and 151 were OTB patrons. They chopped up a combined superpool in excess of $300,000.

The Monticello OTB marriage has proved to be a phenomenal success but track president Leon Greenberg feels that those punters wagering off track are missing out on a good thing.

"From our experience over the first week of action, we've discovered that the on-track better has all the percentages going for him," Greenberg said.

"We've found that the better who came out to our plant get bigger payoffs here than do those who bet off-track and watch the WOR TV Superfecta Show."

"The reason the on-track payoffs are bigger is because the on-track better is more sophisticated, can watch the horses warm up and times them in their pre-race workouts," Greenberg continued.

Army's 'Easy Riders' Return to Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three flats, two accidents, 12,000 miles and 90 days later the Army's "easy riders" are back at the Pentagon, having ended a cross-country motorcycle tour to campaign for the "New Army."

A general and a flock of colorful men greeted the two 22-year-old enlisted men Monday as they roared up on their big Harley-Davidsons, the same bikes that attracted crowds of teenagers at stops in 70 cities.

After doffing their white helmets and black leather jackets, the pair met with Army Secretary Robert F. Froehle and later with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the chief of staff.

"We just went in and rapped with the man," said Douglas Reitmeyer of San Jose, Calif., who originated the idea of traveling the country and telling of his Army experiences to anyone who would listen. He was accompanied on the trip by Michael Speegle of Denver.

Westmoreland listened for nearly half an hour. "He was curious about the attitudes of the kids and wanted to know how the Army could improve its image," Reitmeyer said.

Reitmeyer said, he and Speegle were not out to recruit, just "to tell it like it is." Most youngsters, he said, are not aware of the changes taking place in the Army.

He referred to the improvements in Army life, the new barracks, better pay, beer in the mess hall and the cutting down on so-called "Mickey Mouse" details—all part of the effort to establish "the new modern volunteer Army" and do away with the draft.

Reitmeyer and Speegle made up their own itinerary after selling their idea to Pentagon brass last spring.

"No one asked us what we were going to say or what not to say," Reitmeyer said. "We could have blown the whole thing but they said 'go out and tell it like it is; just be honest.'"

Traveling from city to city on their motorcycles they told their story at schools and shopping centers in 29 states, on the sidewalks of Harlem and in downtown New Orleans.

Both Reitmeyer and Speegle said they enlisted for a three-year tour to avoid the draft.

Although the Army's most-traveled salesmen may have convinced others to join up, neither plans to make it a career. Reitmeyer says, however, he may re-enlist when his tour ends in 22 months.

"I'm not saying the Army is the best thing in the world for everybody," Reitmeyer said. "I'm going back to college," said Speegle.

Loretta Young Suing Network

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Loretta Young is suing a television network for $1.3 million because she was not edited out of old films sold to stations in foreign countries, where viewers might see her with unfashionable hair styles.

The trial of Miss Young's suit began before a jury in Superior Court Monday.

Miss Young said her 1959 contract with the National Broadcasting Co. specifically required the network to remove her appearances, as narrator in opening and closing segments of a series of television dramas, before the films were released for foreign viewing.

Her attorney said the requirement was inserted because Miss Young realized that the films could be seen in foreign countries years after they were made, and hair styles would have changed.

She asked for $3,500 damage for each episode sold and $500,000 in punitive damages.

Dropped From Nativity Scene

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — A performance of a Nativity scene went on as scheduled at the Niagara United Presbyterian Church Monday night, with two lambs and two donkeys—but no black cow.

"We're going to leave it that way," a church official said.

The 1,100-pound cow was dropped from the cast for Monday night's performance because of the trouble it caused the night before as the reenactment of the Bethlehem scene was being set up.

Church Trustee Richard Hinkle was leading the cow by the rope from a barn to the front lamb and donkeys. The cow was no sooner led back to the church when it bolted again, ran back down the road and tried to hurdle a parked Volkswagen. The cow was unsuccessful and the car's hood caved in.

Church officials promptly returned the cow to its owner in the town of Wilson and said they would conduct future performances with only the lambs and donkeys.

Drive-Ins Can Display Sexy Signs

HENRIETTA, N. Y. (AP) — A new state law that bans the exhibition of sexy films within sight of a public highway does not apply to drive-ins, a town justice ruled Monday.

Brighton Town Justice John T. Darcy explained his ruling by pointing to the absence of a comma in the state statute.

He quoted the law as applying to visual material found on, among other things, a "display board viewing screen."

Brighton Town Justice John Darcy said the lawmakers should either have explicitly mentioned outdoor movie screens or else inserted a comma between the words "board" and "viewing."

Because they failed to do so, Darcy said he was dismissing charges brought against two employees of the Starlite Drive-in in this Monroe County community.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, December 22

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Aspects are not good for day when you would be wise to avoid having a chip-on-your-shoulder attitude. Don't let little things upset you. When you really think about them, you see they are of minor importance. Some matters may seem delayed and you feel unable to do what you want at this time, but conditions will improve.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may feel that you are in a rut but if you count your blessings, you find you are well off indeed. Try to help a friend who is in trouble. Avoid one who opposes you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day for contacting good pals since they are likely to be too busy for you. Take care of easy, routine work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Outside activities will not be particularly successful today, so concentrate on those at home. Take care not to jeopardize your standing as a good citizen in any way. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have some fine ideas and want to put them in operation quickly, but it is best you study them more first. Make your plans for the future quietly and wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't procrastinate any longer in handling financial affairs that are pressing and need immediate attention. Plan more time with loved one in the evening and be happier.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You expect an associate to assume more of the mutual responsibility, but it is actually you who should apply yourself more. Avoid one who wants to get you in trouble. Think logically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is better to handle those tasks ahead of you now and make a good impression on higher-ups. Stop complaining so much. "Early to bed, early to rise," is a good motto to follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to clear up certain duties before you can go out for the entertainment that you have in mind. Don't waste time with persons who are un dependable. Use your time wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find out what should be done around your home to improve its appearance as well as the harmony there. Tomorrow would be a better time to invite friends to your home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can now obtain information from regular source provided you act in a fair and tactful way. Control your temper, since you are closer to reaching your goals. Use patience.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't become unhappy because of small monetary disappointments. Concentrate on the big issues and you regain your confidence. Discuss your business affairs with an expert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Losing your temper with others could result in loss of much prestige you are now enjoying. Keep cool, calm and collected. Wait until tomorrow to ask for support from others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is so eager to succeed that there is little patience in the nature. Teach early that life is like climbing a ladder, which has to be done by going up one rung at a time. Upon reaching maturity your progeny can tackle very big jobs and put them on a practical basis with much success in executing them. Give religious training of own choice for best results.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for January is now ready. Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PILL ROUTE: (Q.) I started drinking soon after my boy friend and I broke up nine months ago and he started going with another girl. Drinking didn't make me forget, so I started popping pills. I still can't forget him. We went to gether three years. I still cry myself to sleep every night. I am 16 and my life is ruined. I need help. I have to forget him.—Wreck in Maine.

(A.) You went with the boy three years. You broke up nine months ago. You are now 16. This means that you apparently started going steady when you were 12 or 13. It means you were going steady when you were very young even to have an occasional visit from a boy.

It probably means that you have never gone with anyone but this one boy, and that for nine months now you have been operating alone and in the negative.

That is enough. You have found that drinking and drugs don't help. Now try something else, something positive.

Look around you at the other girls having dates and fun with boys. They are operating positively. They recognize that there is not just one boy or one girl in the world. If they don't get along with one person, they find another.

You do the same. And this time try concentrating on two or three boys instead of just one. That is the way to forget and to go forward into reality instead of backward into ruin.

GAME OR MOVIE: (Q.) I am 13 and want to take out a girl, to a basketball game or a movie. If I go out with a girl should I pay for both of us, or not?—Girl Picked Out in Texas.

(A.) You cannot legally drive a car. Besides, most parents of girls your age do not allow them to date on a regular basis.

But you might arrange for your parents or the girl's parents to drive you to a game or movie and pick you up later. In such a case you would pay for your admission ticket and for the girl's, and for any cold drinks or other refreshments.

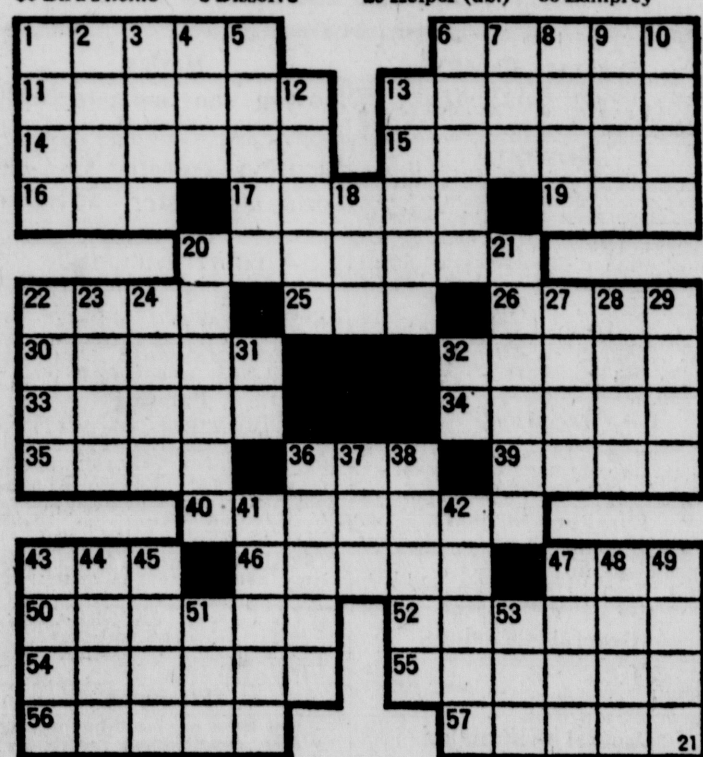

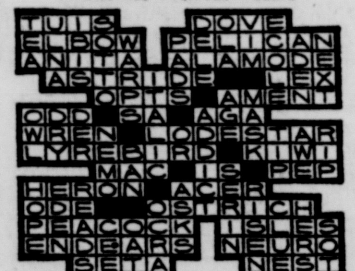

If it's a movie and she has a student discount card, she should hand it to you so you can buy her ticket at a lower rate.

Mixed-Up Week on Boob Tube

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers find this a crazy, mixed-up week on the networks. Many series programs are repeats, and an extraordinary number of special programs and news documentaries are preempting regular series.

The reason: The Nielsen research organization, whose reports on audience size and composition are the industry's most widely used yardsticks, is taking a week off, as it does four or five times a year.

With Nielsen skipping its audience estimates—and with people presumed to be preoccupied with holiday preparations—the networks find it convenient to slip in reruns. The three networks scheduled 20 between Monday night and Christmas Eve.

Documentaries and news department specials frequently attract smaller audiences than do entertainment shows. So inclusion of some this week will not hurt a network's position in the tight three-network ratings race currently in progress.

The practice, however, has resulted in an unfortunate pile-up of specials and documentaries.

AEC, for instance, has preempted its entire schedule for the night for four specials—a cartoon version of "A Christmas Carol," a Jacques Cousteau program about the octopus, a documentary on the insect world and a Danny Thomas comedy and music hour.

NBC opens its evening with an hour-long report of a day in which cameras and John Chancellor spent with President Nixon, followed by the first of a two-part "White Paper" tracing U.S. involvement in Vietnam between 1961 and 1963. At the end of the evening it has a half-hour report on the President's Bermuda meeting with the British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

CBS has one special, an early evening program on the state of the U.S. Army today. Losers in this jam are the President's day is like viewers: One interested in what would probably be concerned about the condition of the Army—and there is no way to watch both.

Meanwhile, the Nielsen report for the week ending Dec. 12 shows CBS's "All in the Family" still the nation's most popular program, followed by a Bob Hope variety hour on NBC, and CBS's repeat of the cartoon "A Charlie Brown Christmas."

Pakistan's New President Promises to Unite Provinces

By United Press International
Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, West Pakistan's foreign minister-turned-president, promised Monday to reunite his country's eastern and western provinces and warned India not to become too complacent about its recent military victories.

Bhutto, 43, leader of the leftist opposition to former President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan took over from his military predecessor at one of the low points in Pakistani history — only days after a 14-day war with India which cost Pakistan its eastern wing. Bhutto announced the retirement of seven leading army generals, including Yahya Khan but dismissed as premature speculation the former president might be tried for leading Pakistan into a losing war.

On the military front, Indian leaders said there had been no noticeable violations of the cease-fire on the western front in the last 48 hours.

The fighting stopped first in East Pakistan after Indian troops and Mukti Bahini (guerrilla fighters) forces captured the capital of Dacca. Fighting stopped on the West within hours after India announced a unilateral cease-fire and Yahya Khan agreed to go along. Sources said Indian military authorities had arrested Abdul Quadir "Tiger Killer" Siddiqui, 25, a rebel leader accused of leading the vengeance killing of four men at the Dacca racetrack Saturday. The victims were charged with looting and attempting to kidnap women.

Bhutto, who made a fiery speech in the United Nations last week promising never to surrender in the East, urged a political settlement reuniting the eastern wing, now known as the People's Republic of Bangladesh. He said over Radio Pakistan Monday he was prepared to negotiate without outside intervention a new status for the lost territory "no matter how loss it can be." However, he said "it must be within the concept of one Pakistan."

Parts of Downtown Belfast in Rubble After Extensive Waves of Bombings

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The army said British soldiers shot and wounded a civilian who refused to halt today in Belfast, target of a series of bomb attacks which smashed parts of the city center to rubble.

An army spokesman said a bullet grazed the head of the man who was treated for a head injury doctors at the Royal Victoria Hospital said was not serious.

The man refused to halt when soldiers challenged him in Stanfield Street in the market area of the Northern Ireland capital, the spokesman said.

What security forces said was one of the most extensive waves of bombings in three years of Roman Catholic-Protestant-British Army clashes in Northern Ireland reduced parts of downtown Belfast to rubble.

At least 13 bombs rocked the city center Monday in another day of terror in the capital. Later a sniper firing on British troops elsewhere in the city shot and killed a young Roman Catholic woman.

In Dublin the city's Roman Catholic archbishop, John C. McQuaid, appealed for a five-day Christmas truce in Northern Ireland. But Lt. Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, commander of British forces in the province, rejected the suggestion.

The army said Margaret McCorry, 20, was killed when a sniper opened fire on British troops from a house in the Catholic Crumlin Road area of Belfast as dusk fell. An army spokesman said Miss McCorry was standing at a bus stop when she was shot in the head by the sniper's bullet. The troops did not return the fire.

Miss McCorry was the 204th person killed in violence-related incidents in Northern Ireland in the past three years.

Earlier 13 bomb blasts ripped through the city center stampeding Christmas shoppers and demolishing at least seven shops, a restaurant, factory, railway station, and an office building. Police said gunmen who planted the devices gave people inside the premises time to escape before the bombs exploded. There were no serious injuries, police said.

A bomb attack on a hardware store was foiled by a woman shopkeeper who grabbed the explosive device shortly after gunmen planted it in the shop and hurled it at their getaway car. The bomb did not explode. "They blew up the back of the shop previously and I was determined they would not get the front," said the woman, who asked not to be identified. "I did it all in a fit of bad temper. I did not think of the consequences at the time." The bomb attacks followed a vow by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) earlier this month that its men would reduce downtown Belfast to a "pile of rubble" by Christmas in their campaign to cripple the province's economy.
